'ALL SIGNED; IT'S ALL RIGHT' SAYS PRIME MINISTER

Explanation By High British Source On Peace Accord

DEMANDS FROM HITLER MODIFIED

Comparison On What Was Granted And What Asked

(By Fred Vanderschmidt)

MUNICH, Sept. 30. — Prime Minister Chamberlain, a white-faced old man with a joyous light in his eyes, came out of the house that Hitler built today convinced that peace was worth the price.

"It's all signed," he said. "It's all right."

Here is an explanation of how the plan will avert war as given by a highly authoritative British source:

France, Great Britain, Italy and Germany will hold themselves responsible for each step necessary to fulfill the agreement, hence Czechoslovakia must accept the plan or France can not go to its support and fight against German "invasion" of Sudeten territories.

Britain, even in last Monday's strong official statement, bound herself only to move when France did and would not fight alone to resist German occupation of Sudetenland.

Corrects "Grave Mistake"

"It was a tragic business—like standing around a table in a morgue and dissecting a body that wasn't there. (Czechoslovakia was not represented at the conference.)

"Yet you must remember that if it handn't been done this way it would have been done by war. You must remember also that we are correcting a grave mistake we made at Versailles."

The spokesman went on to express a conviction that Czechoslovakia could be made by the powers into a completely neutralized and guaranteed state. He envisaged also a strong, purely Czechoslovak state, "shorn of the people it can not govern." This refernce was to troublesome Polish and Hungarian minorities.

This state, he said, must be one which directs no enmity toward any other power,. That, of course, meant that the guarantee system as proposed under the four-power plan would completely replace Czechoslovakia's present system of Russian-French alliances.

Comparisons Made

Following are his terse comparisons of what Hitler demanded and what he gets under the four power agreement:

Demand—Evacuation by the Czechoslovak army and police forces and officials of a wide area of Sudetenland by Oct. 1, without removal of any properties.

Granted—Evacuation of an area roughly corresponding to what he asked for by Oct. 10, without destruction "of any existing installations."

Demanded—Germany army occupation of essentially Sudeten territories by Oct. 1.

Granted—Occupation of four pieces of territory roughly corresponding to the area he drew on his own map, but he is to occupy them over a period of seven days beginning Oct. 1 and (presumably) this is to be done without fighting. In addition, an area to be by defined the proposed international commission would be occupied by the German army by Oct. 10.

Demanded—Discharge at once of all Sudeten Germans from the army or police of the Czechoslovak state

Granted—Discharge within four weeks of all now serving in the army or police "who may wish to be released"

Demanded— Immediate release by Czechoslovaks of all Sudeten German political prisoners

Granted—Same, but with four-week time limit

Demanded—Plebiscite by Nov. 25 in areas where Sudeten Germans are not obviously in the majority, voting to be carried out under the control of an international commission; settlement by German-Czechoslovak or international commission of frontier operations arising from the plebiscite.

Granted—Plebiscite in territories to be determined by the international (French, British, German, Italian and Czechoslovak) commission. "International bodies" will occupy these areas until the plebiscite is over, which must not be later than the end of November.

IS COMMENDED IN PEACE SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — President Roosevelt received today the following cablegram from General Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army, in Esher, England:

"The world will ever bless you for throwing onto the side of peace the weight of your personal influence supported by our Great American people when the destiny of nations was swinging in the balances.

"In the darkness God has shown His infinite light. May all men acknowledge and praise Him.'

SPEAKS AGAINST AN INCREASE FOR GASOLINE TAX

Roy F. Britton Voices Opposition To Proposals Five And Six

Declaring that the campaign concerning the proposed increase in state gasoline taxes is "a battle between taxpayers and tax-spenders", Major Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, defended the position of the automobile club and its officers and gave reasons why, in his opinion, propositions 5 and 6 should be voted down, in an address at the Assembly room of the Court House Thursday night.

L. P. Andrews, a member of the board of governors of the Automobile Club, and who is heading the opposition in Sedalia and Pettis county, introduced the speaker.

Major Britton stated that the Board of Governors "unanimously decided to oppose Propositions Nos. 5 and 6 because the highway planning survey has not yet been completed and because the tax burden on Missouri motor vehicle owners is so great that it should be revised before highway taxes are increased."

He read to the large crowd that attended the meeting a resolution adopted on July 7, 1936, by the Citizens' Road Association, which said in part:

"As the work of the survey progresses and its importance unfolds we are finding ourselves in possession of the facts that will permit us to plan rationally for further road progress. But until the survey and inventory have been completed and all of the facts organized, planning definitely for our road future would be something like pouring the slab before laying the grade."

Similar resolutions, in which the Automobile Club concurred, according to Britton, were adopted by the association at the fifth annual meeting held in Jefferson City Oct 12, 1937, the speaker pointed out, and emphasized that the planning survey is not yet completed, and said that "We stand by the original position of the Citizen's Road Association that no new road program should be developed until the highway planning survey report is made, the findings given to the public and thoroughly analyzed and studied by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the State Highway Department, and that interested groups of citizens assist in the interpretation of these findings.

"The Citizens' Road Association ignored its resolutions and proceeded to prepare a proposition in order to support an increase in the state gas tax before the Highway Planning Survey findings are available.

Major Britton asserted that "while Missouri has the lowest gasoline tax of any state it also has the greatest variety of other motor vehicle taxes than any other state in the Union." In his arguments he held that Proposition 6 is not "a tax limitation," as has been claimed by proponents of the proposition.

Continuing, he declared that "Proposition No. 6 is represented as being necessary or desirable to bring about a reduction in the highway debt. ear-marking road revenues, preventing road money from being diverted to other uses, continuing refunds to farmers for taxes paid on gasoline for farm use and placing the power to correct truck and bus fees in the hands of the Legislature. The adoption of Proposition No. 6 is not necessary to bring about these results. All of them are guaranteed by the constitutional amendment adopted by the people in 1928."

HOMECOMING OF CHAMBERLAIN A TRIUMPHANT ONE

British Accord Him Large Share Of Credit In Diplomacy

PERSONAL REPORT IS MADE TO KING

Indicated Action Prelude To Further Adjusting Europe's Affairs

LONDON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain flew home today to vast, cheering throngs with a peace pact on Czechoslovakia and strong hopes for a broad European settlement as the fruits of his diplomacy.

He stepped from his plane before mad cheering by excited crowds that had gathered at Heston airport to give him a triumphant homecoming from his third flight to Germany.

The prime minister was handed a letter from King George VI as soon as he emerged from the airplane.

One of his first duties was to go to Buckingham palace and report personally to the king on the achievements of the four-power conference at Munich yesterday.

Triumphant Premier

By JAMES B. RESTON

LONDON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was understood today to have forged the foundation of a four-power non-aggression pact, his dearest dream, at the Munich conference.

Informed sources believed the triumphant warrior-premier had persuaded Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini to negotiate a new agreement with Britain and France immediately upon the complete solution of the Czechoslovakian problem, about which statesmen of the four countries reached an accord in Munich early today.

Chamberlain has tried to replace the Locarno pact ever since that instrument of mutual security fell into disuse. His half-brother, the late Sir Austen Chamberlain, was a prime mover in the Locarno arrangement.

(On Oct. 16, 1925, seven treaties for common security were signed at Locarno by representatives of Germany, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Poland and Czechoslovakia.)

The Munich accord was described here as Chamberlain's greatest political victory. Political circles, believing the prime minister within sight of the other goal, felt the 69-year-old Chamberlain might retire with a knight hood when he achieved the four-power pact.

He was at the climax of the

UPROAR WHEN IL DUCE RETURNED TO ROME TODAY

Peace Accord May Bring Withdrawal of Italians In Spain

ROME, Sept. 30.—Premier Mussolini received one of the greatest welcomes his followers ever have accorded him when he returned to Rome today from the four-power conference at Munich.

He appeared shortly after on the balcony of the Plazza Venezia and told the frenzied crowds he "worked at Munich for peace according to justice."

In times past he had appeared on that balcony to summon his people to war, to defy League of Nations punitive measures against Italy's war in Ethiopia and announce Italy's withdrawal from the League.

Observers who had witnessed these earlier historic occasions said the fervor of today's demonstration exceeded any of them.

Il Duce apparently had not planned to speak when he first appeared on the balcony. He saluted, smiled and then disappeared behind the balcony's curtained glass doors.

But twice the uproar brought him back.

Finally, he raised his hand for silence and said:

"You have lived through memorable hours. We have worked at Munich for peace according to justice. Is this not the Italian ideal?"

In one voice the crowd chorused:

"Yes! Yes!"

For fifteen minutes after he withdrew, the crowds continued cheering.

At the railroad station to greet Il Duce were many representatives of the diplomatic corps, including William Phillips, United States ambassador, and the Earl of Perth, British ambassador.

Mussolini strode from the station through a narrow path police cleared for him amid the cheering crowds.

He smiled broadly and snapped the Fascist salute in response to his tumultuous reception.

Beside him was his son-in-law and foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Cino, who had accompanied him to the Munich meeting that found ways to satisfy Germany's demands on Czechoslovakia and save Europe from war.

He and Count Ciano entered an automobile immediately and sped through flag-festooned streets to the Plazza Venezia, Mussolini's office.

CONSIDER PEACE ACCORD A GREAT COUP BY HITLER

Some Statesmen Deem It Stride In Germanic Confederation

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 30—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has effected the greatest coup of his career toward his dream of a great Germanic confederation, a Germany greater than that of the pre-war empire.

To hundreds of millions of simple, home-loving, friendly folk in all countries, the message "We give you peace" which came from yesterday's four-power conference filled their cups to over-flowing.

Assuming the Czechoslovak government will agree to the Sudetenland cession plan, the four-power agreement has many and vital ramifications.

Indeed, some of them bid fair to create in the coming generation history that may surpass implications of the present decision against war.

Here is the way things look to many statesmen and political observers today:

Hitler, having already gained Austria, has made a gigantic stride toward his Germanic federation by which Nazis aspire to become a dominant power of Europe.

The war-born Czechoslovak republic gives up territory of industrial wealth, and may, therefore, be reduced to an ineffectual small state over which Germany can command economic supremacy.

The reduction in size and economic power of Czechoslovakia will materially weaken the powerful military machine France sponsored in eastern Europe as a safeguard against German aggression. That machine was the little entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

A weakened Czechoslovakia would eliminate her as what Germany in the past always considered a springboard for potential Russian attack.

An over-lordship of Czechoslovakia would open the flood-gates for German economic control of the Balkans. It is an old dream of the former German kaiser more near than ever before to reality.

Already Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece are friendly and rapidly becoming members of the German economic circle.

Official Communique At The End Of Fateful Conference

MUNICH, Sept. 30.—(Friday)—(AP)—The official communique issued at the end of the four-power conference follows:

Germany, the United Kingdom, France and Italy, taking into consideration the agreement which has already been reached in principle for cession to Germany of the Sudeten German territory, have agreed on the following terms and conditions governing the said cession and the measures consequent thereon and by this agreement they each hold themselves responsible for the steps necessary to secure its fulfillment:

First—the evacuation will begin on October 1.

Second—the United Kingdom, France and Italy agree that the evacuation of the territory shall be completed by October 10 without any existing installations having been destroyed and that the Czechoslovak government will be held responsible for carrying out the evacuation without damage to the said installations.

The conditions governing the evacuation will be laid down in detail by an international commission composed of representatives of Germany, the United Kingdom, France, Italy and Czechoslovakia.

The international commission referred to in paragraph three will determine the territories in which a plebiscite is to be held. These territories will be occupied by international bodies until the plebiscite has been completed. The same commission will fix the conditions in which the plebiscite is to be held, taking as a basis the conditions of the Saar plebiscite. The commission will also fix a date, not later than the end of November, on which the plebiscite will be held.

There will be right of opinion into and out of transferred territories, the opinion to be exercised within six months from the date of this agreement. x x x x

A German-Czechoslovak commission shall determine details of opinion, consider ways for facilitating the transfer of population and settle questions of principle arising out of the said transfer.

The final determination of the frontiers will be carried out by the international commission. This commission will also be entitled to recommend to the four powers, Germany, the United Kingdom, France and Italy. In certain exceptional cases minor modifications in strictly ethnographical determination of the zones which are to be transferred without plebiscite.

The Czechoslovak government will within the period of four weeks from the date of this agreement release from their military and police forces any Sudeten Germans who may wish to be released and the Czechoslovak government will within the same period release Sudeten German prisoners who are serving terms of imprisonment for political offences.

HEARING OPENS ON THE RAILWAY WAGE DISPUTE

Spokesman For Carriers Would Hold Labor Groups Responsible

FLAT DENIAL BY CHARLES M. HAY

Counsel For Brotherhoods Says Wage Cut Not Solve Problems

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — Railroad management and labor collided head-on today before the emergency board appointed by President Roosevelt to avert a nation-wide strike.

J. Carter Fort, counsel for the carriers which have proposed a 15 per cent wage cut, attacked present railroad wages as "unreasonably high." He promised in an opening statement to prove these were a factor in "the desperate financial conditions of the railroad industry."

This was flatly denied by Charles M. Hay, counsel for 18 brotherhoods representing some 800,000 workers. Hay argued the present plight of railroads arose from two causes:

"Decline of gross business due to competition and, in season, to the decline in general business.

"Bad financial policies and practices."

Hay said a wage cut would not solve any of the problems, that the need was for "a comprehensive national transportation plan for the proper regulation and correlation of all forms of transportation and the correction of financial abuses and a thoroughgoing program of reorganization."

Pay "Nearly Static"

The pay of railroad men, Hay continued, had remained nearly static since 1920 while thousands of them lost jobs, or went on part time, and other industries advanced wages.

Fort told the three-man board that labor organizations, "and they alone," would be to blame if a strike were called.

Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the North Carolina supreme court told representatives for carriers and the railroad brotherhoods the board's "mission is findings of fact."

"Our desire is to get a full picture," the tall judge remarked as he asked lawyers on each side to work out an informal agreement for dividing time.

Several hundred persons, mostly men, packed the large caucus room of the house office building more than an hour before the hearing started.

Fort, in outlining the carriers' case, accused the unions of flatly refusing to carry out the spirit of the national mediation act.

He said that since first announcement of the proposed wage cut, 'responsible leaders of railroad labor organizations publicly announced that they would agree to no reduction of wages."

Almost a million employes of the nation's railroads already have voted to strike rather than accept a 15 per cent wage cut ordered by the carriers. The wage slash was to have become effective tomorrow but under the national mediation act, invoked by President Roosevelt when he appointed the emergency board, neither side can take any action for 60 days.

The law gives the board 30 days in which to prepare its recommendations. An additional 30-day period must elapse before either strike or wage-cut could become effective. Neither side is bound, however, to accept the board's findings.

Because of the numbers of workers involved and the failures which have dogged efforts to settle the wage controversy, officials said the emergency boards' task was the toughest problem of its kind since the mediation act became law. Sixteen other emergency boards have been created under the mediation act since 1926 but officials said their problems did not compare in magnitude to the present one.

ACCEPTANCE DUE 'SUPERIOR FORCE' PREMIER SAYS

Decision To "Save Life And Nation" Declares Syrovy

PRAGUE, Sept. 30.—Czechoslovakia's soldier-premier, General Jan Syrovy, in an appeal broadcast to the nation tonight declared that "superior force compelled us to accept" the four-power Munich agreement for the dismemberment of the country.

"This is the most difficult moment in my life," declared the 50-year-old general who led 70,000 Czech troops in an epic march across Siberia toward the end of the world war.

"But I have taken the decision to save life and to save the nation."

Appeal For Loyalty

General Ludwig Krejci, commander-in-chief of the army, issued a proclamation appealing to the army loyally to protect the new state of Czechoslovakia. This followed the premier's broadcast.

"Superior force has compelled us to accept," declared Premier Syrovy. "My duty was to consider everything. As a soldier I had to choose the way to peace.

"The nation will be stronger and more united.

"We have chosen the only right course.

"Four powers have decided to ask from us the abdication of German territories. We had to choose between a useless fight and sacrifices.

"We have accepted the unheard of sacrifices imposed upon us. We have had to choose between the death of a nation and abdication of some territories.

"We shall accomplish the conditions imposed on us. The main thing is that we are remaining ourselves and we must be united."

More than 50,000 Sudeten German social democrats, a dissident element among the 3,500,000 Germanic minority, already have fled from Sudetenland into the interior of Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovak authorities said they expected the number to be trebled shortly. The problem of the refugees, however, was said to be minor as compared to the social democrats unable to leave territory which the German army will take over.

The president of the social democrats said he planned to appeal to Britain in an effort to see that at least part of the anti-Nazi Germans be given new homes and new possibilities of existence in some far away country, perhaps Canada.

A four-hour meeting of the Czechoslovak cabinet ended at 2 p. m. (7 a. m. CST).

The minister of agriculture went on the air at noon to ask farmers to expedite their harvests, conserve the food supply and aid the army. He urged the general public to cooperate in the harvesting and conservation program.

WAR IN EUROPE IS AVERTED BY PACT OF PEACE

Commission To Supervise Transfer Of Territory Named

SUDETEN REGION GOES TO GERMANY

Acceptance Of Agreement By The Czech Government

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The international commission to carry out the terms of German annexation of Sudetenland under the four-power Munich agreement met for the first time today to discuss preparing Czechoslovak evacuation zones 1 and 2 for German occupation.

As they met, German military units were ready down to the last mess kit and polished bootstraps to goose-step into Czechoslovakia after midnight.

The meeting occurred in the German foreign office with Dr. Vojtech Mastny, Czechoslovak minister to Berlin, attending.

MUNICH, Sept. 30—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain and Reichsfuehrer Hitler today added a new Anglo-German declaration of peace to the four-power Munich accord that gave Germany part of Czechoslovakia and averted a European war.

After the British and German chiefs had signed with Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Daladier of France the pact for Czechoslovakia's dismemberment they made a joint declaration of the will of their "two peoples never to go to war with one another again."

German troops were at the border to begin the gradual occupation of the Sudetenland at midnight as Chamberlain announced: The Czechoslovak government accepted the Munich accord.

The international commission to supervise the cession was meeting in Berlin and would enter the Sudentenland tomorrow.

Demobilization of Europe's armies and the British navy would "come later"—after the German occupation was accomplished, within ten days.

Chamberlain expressed the belief Munich would open the way "to appeasement in Europe."

Diplomats To Homes

On this note of peace he flew back to London. Daladier left by air for Paris after a declaration of French friendship for Germany. Mussolini had entrained earlier to return to the acclaim of his own people as "the savior of peace in Europe."

The Munich accord envisaged satisfaction of Hungary's and Poland's claims for cession of Czechoslovak territories. After that Germany and Italy were pledged to join Britain and France in a guarantee of the diminished frontiers of Czechoslovakia.

ISOLATION CAN BE GEOGRAPHICAL ONLY

America is due for a spirited business revival this fall—if the explosive Czech situation is smoothed out and a general European war does not take place. So runs the advice given to President Roosevelt by his business forecasters.

That little fact is certainly something for exponents of American isolation to take into account.

True it is that the oceans are wide and that no nation has any designs on the territory of the continental United States. It is also true that we could probably come closer to making a success of the project of closing our gates and living in our own back yard than any other great nation could.

But the inescapable fact is that no matter what we do we are bound to feel the direct and immediate effects of any trouble that may take place in Europe.

* * *

Whether we regain a good share of our lost prosperity this fall will apparently depend (in large part, at least) on events in Berlin, Prague, London and Paris. We may talk of isolation all we please, but our economy will work in one way if Europe has peace and in another if Europe goes to war.

No talk about "staying at home and minding our own business" can either change or disguise that fact. And so we are simply shutting our eyes to reality when we say that we don't care what happens in Europe. We do care; we can't help caring, because the very conditions under which we do our work and run our domestic business depend so greatly on European conditions.

This doesn't mean that we ought to mobilize our army and prepare our navy for a quick trip across the Atlantic. A general war would mean destruction and ruin for all parties involved, and we shouldn't help ourselves very much by declaring ourselves in on it.

But it does mean that it is very much to our interest to see that the peace of Europe is preserved. It is to our interest, in a strict dollars-and-cents way, to live in a world in which the machinery exists to settle international disputes peacefully—and in which all hands are prepared to make use of that machinery.

Perhaps it is now too late for us to shape our policies by that fact. The die may already have been cast.

But if this crisis is passed without an explosion, the lesson should not be lost on us.

We don't want to "get involved" in Europe's quarrels, certainly. Yet when those quarrels reach the boiling point we have to pay for them anyway; isn't it to our interest to do what we can, beforehand, to get those quarrels adjusted?

The crisis on the continent has forced numerous lecturers to cancel projected tours in this country, so, you see, there's some good in everything.

Residents of an eastern town completely ignored the opening of their new post office. Open a post office and you get ignored; open a letter and you get a prison term.

That Atlantic Coast hurricane broke all the rules and turned in the wrong direction, and now the meteorologists know what it's like to be a political forecaster.

DISCOMFORT FOR THE FEW

The novelty has gone out of gas-mask fittings and drills in Europe. It's old stuff to everybody now—except for a few individuals with particularly pressing tasks that haven't allowed interruptions for such matters.

But there'll be fewer exceptions before long. A foreign correspondent reports that plans for fittings in the near future have been made by numerous European personages in the very highest offices. Even the king and queen of England, for instance, are going to shop for masks in a few days.

It makes one wonder. Supposing that all these personal preparations for war that still hold such a nightmarish quality for us in this comparatively undisturbed part of the world had been required first of the men in places of power—ministers of state, members of representative bodies, men sharing or holding alone the responsibilities of national well-being; might Europe not be just a little further from the disasters that appear to be overtaking it today?

Might not peace have been made more secure if some of these men had served their own frightening stretches in bomb-proofs at regular intervals back in the placid '20s? Mightn't it have helped if they had been forced to wear gas masks at all disarmament conferences?

Well, maybe not. Likely if working on their imaginations were as simple a matter as that there wouldn't have been any need to take such measures in the first place.

SALUBRIOUS FLOPS

It's a nerve-wracking job trying to keep abreast of the times these days.

For instance, you probably have very old-fashioned notions about children falling. There's nothing like plenty of good, hard falls for them, a British psychologist has just announced. A fall into a pond of some kind is especially beneficial. The idea is that it teaches them to avoid such falls in the future.

The psychologist specifies that the best time to start this falling business is between the ages of one and two.

You know, there's probably something to that. It suggests a parallel course of education for young men in their first year out of school. Introduce them, for instance, to a car without any brakes, a girl who's bound to throw them over, a job they can't possibly hold, a collection of bills they can't possibly pay, and a variety of the run-of-the-mine swindles. After that first year they're bound to get along—if they haven't broken their necks in any of the falls.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic dispatches report that two important and supposedly confidential factors contributed to Hitler's determination to plunge into Czechoslovakia.

1st was the fact that during two separate conversations between the French and the British, Chamberlain was unwilling to consider any cooperation with the Russians in case Czechoslovakia was attacked. He made it clear that Britain did not want to discus military cooperation with an "unsocial" nation such as the Soviets. Word of this got back to Hitler. Naturally it bucked him up.

2nd was Hitler's knowledge that a group within the British Cabinet leans toward Berlin and always has believed that Czechoslovakia should be put upon the sacrifical block.

This group is led by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary; and Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Secretary.

This is the group which has consistently undermined world attempts for peace. During the Japanese conquest of Manchuria in 1931-32, it was Sir John Simon, then Foreign Secretary, who double-crossed Henry L. Stimson in his attempt to block the Japanese. During the Ethiopian crisis in 1935 it was Sir Samuel Hoare who negotiated the deal for selling the Ethiopians down the river.

* * *

In 1914 it was a somewhat similar split in the British Cabinet and hesitancy over aid to France that probably caused the German invasion of the "Czechoslovakia of 1914"—Belgium.

Modern Diplomacy

When Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin, went to see Hitler before his Nuremburg speech, he forgot to tell his Foreign Office what code cipher he would use in reporting back his conversation.

So the Foreign Office sent a courier by air to catch up with him and find out.

Henderson told the courier that it didn't make any difference if he had forgotten the code because the German secret police would know what he sent anyway.

In the end, Ambassador Henderson did not see Hitler but Foreign Minister Ribbentrop, supposedly because Der Fuehrer was in one of his tantrums, and it was explained that he was likely to insult the Ambassador. This would have given Henderson the embarrassing alternative of protesting, which would have meant his resignation, or of taking the brow-beating lying down, which was not in keeping with the dignity of an ambassador of His Britannic Majesty.

Deadernell

Lewis Compton, aide to Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, scribbled a memo to his chief, reading, "I suppose the deal we discussed yesterday is dead?"

The memo came back with one word added: "Deadernell."

Racket-Busting

The unique way in which Tom Dewey, racket-busting District Attorney of New York City, was paid for an article he wrote for Liberty Magazine, has just leaked out here.

Dewey was supposed to receive about $1,000 for the article, but he told the magazine publishers he did not want to be in a class with Ickes, Wallace and Harry Hopkins, who were paid for their literary outpourings. So he suggested that instead of paying him, the magazine finance a European trip for two girls.

The women, both members of New York's underworld, had been informants for Dewey in getting valuable testimony against gangsters. "If they stay here they may be bumped off for squealing," Dewey told the magazine publishers, "so, if you can, give them a trip to Europe."

Liberty complied. But later when the publishers got ready to make out their tax returns, they called in their attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, and asked whether it was permissable for them to take a tax reduction on the fee paid out on behalf of but not directly to Dewey. They found it a little embarrassing, they explained, to put on their tax return: "Expenses to Europe for two prostitutes, $1,000."

Hitler's Speech

President Roosevelt studied carefully Hitler's historic speech of Monday. His private reaction was that no agreement made with Hitler is worth the paper it is written on.

One section of the speech which provoked him particularly was Hitler's reference to Woodrow Wilson, who, without naming him directly, the Fuehrer evidently included in the "foolish or crazy so-called statesmen" who had reshaped Central Europe "under the slogan 'self determination and the right of nations'."

Higher Express Rates

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has been making a quiet study of the proposed reshuffle of Railway Express Agency rates, and finds that while reducing the rates on the silk dress which the department store sends to the consumer, the new rates will be increased on such essential commodities as fruit, vegetables and fish.

As a result, Wallace is considerin taking a stand with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is now considering the proposed rate increases. He feels that the new rates would work against the farmer and the great mass of consumers because of the increased rates on carload lots, and by decreasing the rates on small packages, would only cut in on parcel post without any real gain to the consumer.

Morris Ernst, New York attorney who is opposing the rate increases, is bringing out some sensational disclosures before the ICC, namely that in certain areas freight and express are both shipped in the same car, delivered in the same truck, although express pays higher rate.

• SERIAL STORY

HIT-RUN LOVE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Pat refuses to lie for Larry, to beg Sweeney to "go easy." After seeing him with Dottie Barnes, she accepts Tom's invitation to dinner.

CHAPTER XI

IT was different being with Tom. She felt freer, more able to express herself, she decided, sitting across from him in the hotel dining room where he insisted upon taking her.

"A first time should be done in style," he explained, when she suggested a smaller place. "After all this is quite an event for me. Maybe you don't know that."

There was no need for pretense with Tom. Sometimes in the old days with Larry she had had to play up. Larry had a way of belittling the time-accustomed ways she and all the crowd she had grown up with did things.

For a little while she forgot that life was changed. The time was passed quickly, too quickly, for she still faced a blank wall. She felt that knowing Tom better had not offered her a way out. Could she turn to him now and tell him about Larry? One moment he seemed so kind, so competent, that asking his advice should be easy, and then a remark reminded her that he was still all prosecutor.

Still trying to find the courage, she saw him look at his watch, take the bill and put down his napkin.

"I have to run," he said. "I'm supposed to be at headquarters to go over some details. Maybe there will be a time when one of us won't always be in a hurry. Coming with me tonight was kind of you. Will there be other times?"

She nodded. "I hope so." She felt ashamed. She had enjoyed being with him, but she didn't want him to know the reason that had prompted her acceptance of his invitation. If only she knew what to do. That sense of uncertainty still held her in its grasp.

She wavered back and forth as the week sped by. Surely Larry would find a way out for himself. Church wouldn't permit him to run the risk of perjury when the case came to trial. As for that, how much did Church actually know? How much did anyone other than she know about the true facts? And what would Tom think of her if he ever did find out?

Each day his kindness, his gentleness reminded her of that. Each day she became more conscious of his caring, and of her own desire to live up to his belief.

Too quickly the trial date came. She moved in a world without order. She felt frozen, insensitive to life. She clung blindly to the hope that Larry would clear himself, but with no knowledge of how he could do it and save his honor.

Hope and fear came on each other's heels in rapid succession after that. The trial started. Tom instructed the jurors in their duty. Sitting at her table staring at the faces of the men and women in the jury box she couldn't believe that affairs had progressed to this point. That these people had been called to decide upon Larry's guilt or innocence in an involuntary manslaughter case.

* * *

TAKING down the testimony of police called to the scene of the accident, she tried to get her thoughts in order. Not 10 feet away Larry sat with his attorney and in the background were the usual courtroom sitters: relatives, friends, witnesses, curiosity seekers, and around the bench itself reporters came and went.

Papers carried the story on the front page again that morning. Headlines stood out. "Kent trial starts—" Pat leaned over Desk Sergeant O'Shea's shoulder to read quick sentences. The defense would attempt to show Kent was on the other side of town at the time of the accident, Church declared. Circumstantial evidence alone would prove a weak case for the prosecutor. Two more deaths had been added again yesterday to the year's toll in the traffic war, and the police commissioner demanded action.

Yes, as the police around the court so aptly put it, the heat was on. There must be action, and Tom was the one to teach the public that heedless driving would result in severe punishment. Today was his, and today he must start on a hard lesson.

Yet as the pattern was woven there in the court Pat could feel an uneasiness on Tom's part. After the first details had been gone through and they were down to the serious business of questioning witnesses, the girl could see just how clever Church was. Quietly he would talk to the man or woman on the stand, then suddenly break in with a sharp question that broke their certain answers, confuse them as to distance, degree of light and dark, condition of the pavement, how far ahead they themselves could see.

Already two men who had appeared positive in their testimony that the killer's car was a blue coupe had left the stand with their stories broken and tangled. Tom's forehead was furrowed, and he was taking voluminous notes while conferring with the two detectives from the Accident Investigation Bureau. She knew he was worried, and she could sense the amusement on Church's face.

* * *

SHE looked up with relief when Shelia dropped in to visit that afternoon. For last week she had been so completely cut off from the outside world, living fearfully, shut within the secrecy of her own world.

"I've wanted to come here and see you for ages," her cousin said, her big childish brown eyes shining with interest. "And then along comes a whole half day free. If I'd known before I'd have had some plan for the afternoon, but as it was I thought I'd have to go with my fifth graders to this music festival. Miss Gordon was grand. She said to forget work, that the kids could go with the eighth grade teacher, and so here I am. Now tell me who everyone is, and what all these people are doing."

Pat made a place for her at her own table below the judge's bench and pointed out the familiar procedure. Shelia was thrilled over such simple things—meeting the police sergeants and some of the attorneys who were always on hand when a pretty girl appeared.

And then she introduced Tom. "He's assistant prosecutor," she explained, watching the sudden flush stain her cousin's face. "You wanted to know some big shots, so of course you must meet Tom."

Shelia's naive excitement would ordinarily have only amused her, but now she watched the brown eyes sparkle and her face grow animated as she talked with Tom. Pat felt a stab of jealousy. It frightened her, made her ashamed and glad for an excuse to go into her own office. There she looked at herself in her tiny mirror. Hard to believe that such a horrible weakness should show up in herself. And toward Shelia of all people in the world: Shelia who was as near and dear as a sister, the same girl with whom she had played and dreamed through school years, the same girl to whom she had first confided her love for Larry, the girl who was to be her bridesmaid when the wedding took place.

She didn't have any right to think of Tom as her own. She belonged to Larry, and now of all times she should think of him and what she could do to help him. But when she went back to her table she could feel a little pulse hammer in her throat and a dull beat deafen her ears as she watched Tom lean toward Shelia while he explained some statute in a law book.

CHICAGO CRUSHES PIRATES 10 TO 1 TO SWEEP THREE GAME SERIES

Four Pittsburgh Hurlers Are Unable To Stop Cubs' Drive Toward Pennant

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—On the strong right arm of Bill "Iron man" Lee, the fighting Chicago Cubs rode to a crushing 10 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Thusday for a sweep of the three game series and a game and one-half lead in the National Legue pennant battle.

The husky Chicgo righthander, pitching a fourth time in as many days, set the Pirates down with only seven hits. Their lone run came as the result of four straight passes in the third inning. From the first inning, in which the rampant Cubs scored three runs largely through the wildness of Russ Bauers, Chicago took command—then surged on to a tenth straight victory in a seemingly unstoppable march to the championship.

The Cubs, nine games out of first place five weeks ago and winners over the Pirates in close, dramatic contests Tuesday and Wednesday, took their bats and made today's game a rout. Ten lusty hits off four Pirate hurlers, backed up by a brilliant defense, gave the Cubs victory, their 20th in their last 23 games.

A throng of 42,628 saw the Bruins collect three runs in the first inning on a hit, three walks and a sacrifice. After the Bucs scored their single run in the third, the Cubs pushed two more scores over the fourth on hits by Rip Collins, Bill Jurges, Stan Hack and Frank Demaree.

They picked up three more markers in the fifth on as many hits and one of three Pittsburgh errors. One of the most damaging blows was Lee's line double to left which drove in two of the tallies. In the eighth Chicago scored its final two runs on a single hit as John Rizzo made the second of his two miscues and Arky Vaughan contributed another boot.

For the three game series with the Pirates the crowd totaled 119,431, a record for a three game series in Chicago.

SMITH-COTTON TIGERS TO FIRST GAME TONIGHT

Lineup Announced To Go Against Marshall Owls There

Tonight Smith-Cotton will get its first real taste of football when the Tigers meet the Marshall high school Owls at Marshall on the Missouri Valley College gridiron, the game to be called promptly at 8 o'clock.

Coach Donald Davenport made the announcement of his starting lineup this afternoon with the following:

Center—Raymond Morgenstern.
Guards—Bob Wild and Marion Meyers.
Tackles—Edwin Brown and C. O. Green.
Ends—Ray Rayl and Alvin Meints.
Halfbacks — Cecil Hill and Frank Ellis.
Fullback—Clayton Morris.
Quarterback—Tommy Ellis.

Other players making the trip are: James Gardner, center; James Bennett and Roswell Beach, guards; David Pierce and James Hazel, tackles; Dee Carver and Randall Scott, ends; Jack Devine, tackle; Warren Herrick, Jimmy Myers, halfbacks; Buddy Agniel, Kenneth Meints, Lawrence Sullivan and Jack Woods, backs.

Davenport reports his injury list is not as bad off as he expected with all boys who have complained the past week now in condition to play tonight: Cecil Hill, Alvin Meints, Bob Wild, Edwin Brown, David Pierce and Dee Carver, were suffering from bruises or slight cuts.

The team is expected to be accompanied to Marshall by a large delegation of Smith-Cotton fans all desiring to see the renewal of football games between these two teams which have been on the "outs" since about 1932.

INSPECTION TOUR OF WOODED AREAS

ROLLA, Mo., Sept. 30. — Through nature herself, rather than through speeches, delegates to the Central States Forestry Congress today sought to learn of the recent progress made in Missouri's wooded areas.

An inspection tour of state parks, game refuges and national forest areas was on the program. Delegates left to visit Meramec Springs, Indian Trail State Forest, Clark National Forest, Licking nursery and Gardner National Forest. Tomorrow they will tour the Lake of the Ozarks region.

Addressing yesterday's session, E. Sydney Stephens, chairman of the state conservation commission, asserted the "mere novelty" of the state's wild life amendment approved in 1936 "constitutes no ground for questioning its validity."

Stephens referred to a test case now before the state supreme court in which Attorney General Roy McKittrick argued the commission did not have power to overturn a legislative enactment setting fishing dates.

Under provisions of the amendment, Stephens told the conference, the commission is "empowered to deal with the problems of conservation on a local and current basis, acting upon the experience and advice of technically trained individuals who make professions of their respective fields."

"The commission can undertake to remedy evils at the time and in the place where they occur," he stated.

Stephens said he looked forward to the time when a forestry conservation program in the state would be financed by legislative appropriations from the general revenue.

A "great deal for the future" in wildlife development in the Ozarks region was predicted by Dean M. F. Miller of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Teams of Big Six To Scattered Fronts

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30.—The Big Six deployed its football forces on six widely scattered fronts today for a full weekend of engagements in at least four of which its contingents were rated underdogs.

The Oklahoma Sooners started the movement last night when 38 entrained for Houston and a clash with Rice, 1937 champion of the explosive Southwest Conference. Kansas State, 33 strong, set out early today to meet Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., and by tonight Nebraska will be headed for its Minneapolis battle with Minnesota and Kansas will be en route to South Bend to meet Notre Dame.

Only in home sectors where Iowa State plays little Luther college and Missouri meets Colorado were Big Six elevens given the nod. But Coach Don Faurot discounted Missouri's edge. "We'll be lucky to hold Colorado to a tie," he said.

With Jack Dodd back in uniform Nebraska was at full strength for the first time in 10 days in its final hard workout. The Saturday game will see the Gophers seeking to save the sting of last year's upset Cornhusker victory.

Coach Ad Lindsey indicated a definite hope his Kansans would pierce the Notre Dame defense for a touchdown or so. Apparently remembering that the Jayhawks converted only one of three tries after touchdown last Saturday, Lindsey had Chester Gibbens trying point-after kicks all yesterday afternoon and the sophomore made good on all but three of 50.

There were 10 veterans in the lineup Coach Wes Fry said he probably would start against Northwestern, but the reserves were mostly rookies, 19 of them sophomores.

The farms on which the Conservation Commission plans to put on a demonstration of game management include over seven thousand acres where native quail will be released each year, and where the Sedalia Field Trial Association will conduct two bird dog field trials each year. These trials in the past have brought well known bird dogs from several nearby states. Dogs that have won championship honors in trials in Canada and in the National events held in the United States are expected to show here this fall. The date of the trial is October 15th and 16th, and with favorable weather a record attendance is expected. Through the rental of horses and serving meals to dog handlers and the audience, farmers in the area will receive a very welcome addition to their incomes as a result of this event. Trials are usually held in the spring and fall when horses can be spared, and when growing crops will not be damaged.

Realizing the advantage of an abundance of quail and other birds on farming territory, the owners of land in the vicinity to be used in this demonstration have given their most hearty cooperation to the project, and have almost without exception signed five year agreements with the field trial group and the state commission to prohibit shooting and to protect the quail to be furnished by the state. Native quail, raised in state hatcheries will be used exclusively, and are expected to thrive and multiply under natural conditions. The area now being posted contains an abundance of feed and ideal cover for birds, with numerous ponds and small streams where they can obtain water. In case of severe winter weather, arrangements will be made to feed and protect the birds in this territory to insure a plentiful crop each year.

Aside from the amount of cash brought into the community by those attending these trials, thousands of dollars will be saved to the farmers each year through the assistance they receive from quail and other protected birds in keeping down insect pests. To those who have witnessed bird dog trials before, the one to be held October 15th and 16th promises the same thrills and entertainment provided in past events, in an even greater measure. To those who have never seen a trial of this kind before, a very pleasant and interesting outing is promised. Saddle horses will be available for those who wish to ride, and meals will be served on the grounds to save delay for those who would otherwise have to return to Sedalia at meal times.

• HOW TO SEE FOOTBALL

NO. 2—THE SINGLE WING

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

The old saw, "There is more than one way of skinning a cat," holds good in football, where there is more than one way of scoring a touchdown.

And to score touchdowns in modern football, coaches usually plan their offenses along various lines, or according to a certain system.

One of the more common today is the single wing, which probably owes its development to Amos Alonzo Stagg, who is credited with originating the shift.

Although there are any number of plays which can be run from a basic formation, it is simple for the spectator to spot the single wing. In most cases the left guard or left tackle will move into the right side of the line, forming an unbalanced line, with a strong side.

The tailback, or Number 4 back, takes a position about six yards immediately behind the center, with the Number 2 blocking back up close . . . about a yard behind the right guard. The wing, or Number 1, is a yard behind and about a yard outside the right end, and the Number 3 back takes a spot a couple of yards in front of and a yard or so to the right of the tailback.

This setup is capable of producing plenty of power on line plays to the so-called strong side, ranging from plunges over the middle to wide end sweeps. This, theoretically, makes for weakness on plays over the short side, but just as soon as the defending team starts to overshift to halt strong-side maneuvers, a smart quarterback can make good use of special weak-side plays, most effective of which often is the reverse, with the wing back coming around.

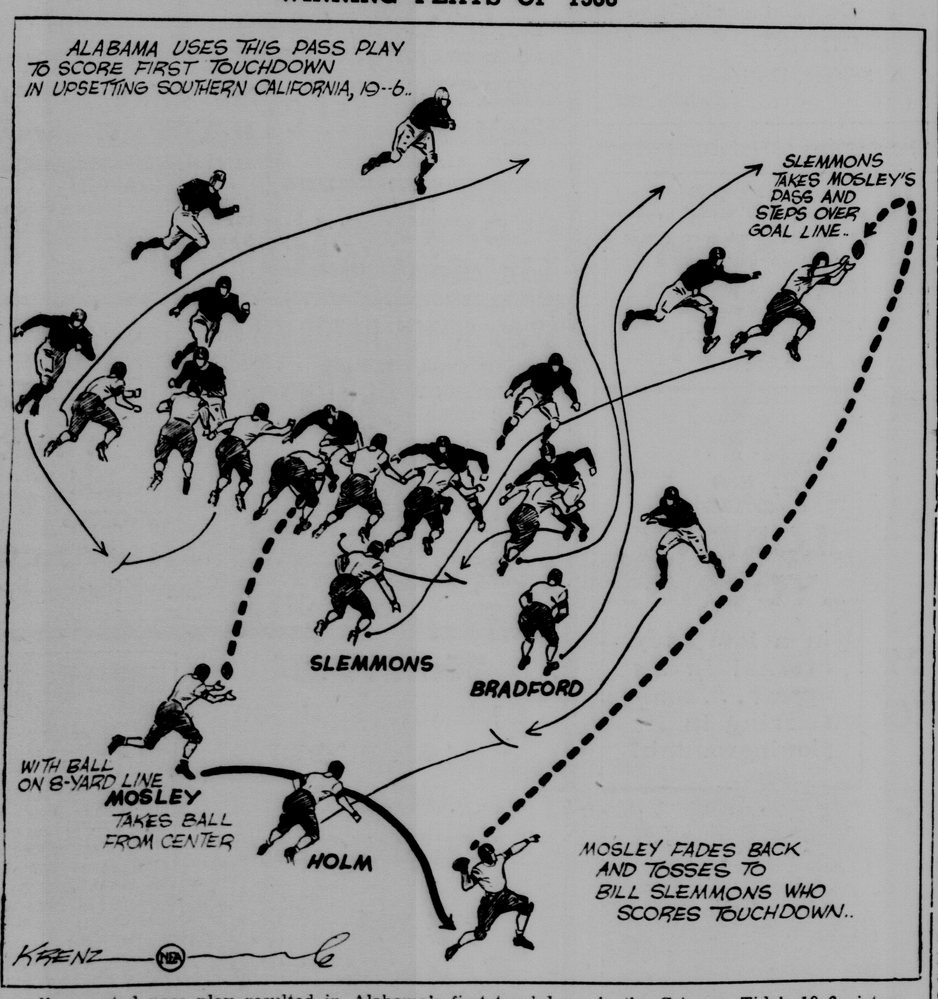
Normally, however, the wing back helps his end block the defending tackle, the most dangerous man the strong side must contend with.

The wing back lending aid to the end is one of the outstanding features of the single wing formation, and the fact that three backs—the wing excepted—are in position to receive a direct pass from center, is another strong feature.

Most prevalent offense used by big-time schools, the single wing, is put into action by Yale, Dartmouth, Northwestern, California, and others.

NEXT: The double wing.

WINNING PLAYS OF 1938



A well-executed pass play resulted in Alabama's first touchdown in the Crimson Tide's 19-6 victory over Southern California at Los Angeles. With the ball on U. S. C.'s eight-yard line early in the second quarter, Herky Mosley, 'Bama left half, took, the pass from center faded back and tossed to Billy Slemmons who took the ball in the flat territory and was tackled just after getting over the goal line.

Yankees to Attempt to Win Third World Series In Three Years

(This is the last of a series comparing the potential rivals in the approaching world series.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The New York Yankees, seeking to break all precedent by winning their third straight world series, will go into action against either the Chicago Cubs or Pittsburgh Pirates next Wednesday firing the same double-barreled shotgun that has mowed down the Giants in the last two autumn arguments.

First, Manager Joe McCarthy will explode Vernon (Lefty) Gomez at the National league batters, and then he will pull the other trigger, Rufus (Red) Ruffing. If the enemy survives the twin blast and the mopping-up operations of assorted other Yankee pitchers and still is acting belligerent, then Gomez and Ruffing will be fired again.

That about sums up the Yanks' pitching strategy. In Ruffing, who has won 21 and lost 7 this season, and Gomez, with an 18-12 count, the champs own a pair of the greatest flingers in the game today. Gomez has won all five world series games he has started. Ruffing has won two and lost one.

Rely on Two Aces

With Monte Pearson, the club's third fine pitcher, sick and unlikely to start in the series, and Spud Chandler, sensational young star, out with a bad elbow, it looks like the Yanks will have only their two aces to depend upon. But that is something like saying that a man has only two million dollars left in the bank.

Neither the Cubs nor the Pirates boasts such a brace of hotshots, though both have good pitching and the Cubs figure to do a lot of damage with Bill Lee and Clay Bryant if they qualify for the big doings. Lee, with 22 wins and 9 losses, and Bryant with 19 and 11, have been pitching phenomenal ball during the Cubs' stretch drive. Only thing, they are bound to be getting tired, and if the National league race is not decided before Sunday they will go into the series wobbling around like sleep-walkers. They are the only sure bets the Cubs have, notwithstanding Dizzy Dean's recent good showing.

The Pirates own three top pitchers in Bob Klinger, Jim Tobin and Russ Bauers, a very useful game-saver in Mace Brown, and valuable supporting strength in Cy Blanton, Red Lucas and Ed Brandt. It probably is the best balanced staff of the lot, yet it lacks a really great pitcher, or one with world series experience. This last is important.

Baseball men figure that the Cubs' staff would stand the best chance of stopping the Yankee sluggers, providing Lee and Bryant get a little rest before the series begins. Harry Danning, who has been behind the plate for the Giants in the last two series, thinks Bauers of the Pirates could stifle the champions.

On the whole, though, the vote must go to Gomez and Ruffing. It is believed Johnny Murphy, demon relief pitcher, will start the third game for the Yankees if Pearson still is ailing.

A comparison of the rival catchers is elementary. The Yankees have Bill Dickey, the best catcher in baseball today and perhaps the greatest ever. He is hitting at a .315 clip, has smacked 27 home runs and has knocked in 115 runs in 129 games.

Gabby Hartnett, who has caught and managed the Cubs from fourth place to the brink of glory within two months, is a .274 batter who has hit nine homers and driven in 57 runs in 86 games. Al Todd, the Pirate backstop, has poled seven homers and pushed 74 runs across while compiling a .264 mark in 128 games.

CHICAGO CRUSHES PIRATES 10 TO 1 TO SWEEP THREE GAME SERIES

Four Pittsburgh Hurlers Are Unable To Stop Cubs' Drive Toward Pennant

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—On the strong right arm of Bill "Iron man" Lee, the fighting Chicago Cubs rode to a crushing 10 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Thusday for a sweep of the three game series and a game and one-half lead in the National Legue pennant battle.

The husky Chicgo righthander, pitching a fourth time in as many days, set the Pirates down with only seven hits. Their lone run came as the result of four straight passes in the third inning. From the first inning, in which the rampant Cubs scored three runs largely through the wildness of Russ Bauers, Chicago took command—then surged on to a tenth straight victory in a seemingly unstoppable march to the championship.

PENNANT RACE AT A GLANCE

	Pct	be hind	to play
Chicago	.591	——	3
Pittsburgh	.582	1½	4

Remaining schedule:

Chicago-Friday, Saturday and Sunday, single games, at St. Louis.

Pittsburgh-Friday doubleheader, Saturday and Sunday single games, at Cincinnati.

The Cubs, nine games out of first place five weeks ago and winners over the Pirates in close, dramatic contests Tuesday and Wednesday, took their bats and made today's game a rout. Ten lusty hits off four Pirate hurlers, backed up by a brilliant defense, gave the Cubs victory, their 20th in their last 23 games.

A throng of 42,628 saw the Bruins collect three runs in the first inning on a hit, three walks and a sacrifice. After the Bucs scored their single run in the third, the Cubs pushed two more scores over the fourth on hits by Rip Collins, Bill Jurges, Stan Hack and Frank Demaree.

They picked up three more markers in the fifth on as many hits and one of three Pittsburgh errors. One of the most damaging blows was Lee's line double to left which drove in two of the tallies. In the eighth Chicago scored its final two runs on a single hit as John Rizzo made the second of his two miscues and Arky Vaughan contributed another boot.

CUBS TO LEAD IN PAID ADMISSIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—The fighting Chicago Cubs will lead the National league in attendance figures for 1938 with a total of more than a million for home attendance, about 75,000 more than paid to see the 1937 games. For the three game series with the Pirates the crowd totaled 119,431, a record for a three game series in Chicago.

SMITH-COTTON TIGERS TO FIRST GAME TONIGHT

Lineup Announced To Go Against Marshall Owls There

Tonight Smith-Cotton will get its first real taste of football when the Tigers meet the Marshall high school Owls at Marshall on the Missouri Valley College gridiron, the game to be called promptly at 8 o'clock.

Coach Donald Davenport made the announcement of his starting lineup this afternoon with the following:

Center—Raymond Morgenstern.

Guards—Bob Wild and Marion Meyers.

Tackles—Edwin Brown and C. O. Green.

Ends—Ray Rayl and Alvin Meints.

Halfbacks — Cecil Hill and Frank Ellis.

Fullback—Clayton Morris.

Quarterback—Tommy Ellis.

Other players making the trip are: James Gardner, center; James Bennett and Roswell Beach, guards; David Pierce and James Hazel, tackles; Dee Carver and Randall Scott, ends; Jack Devine, tackle; Warren Herrick, Jimmy Myers, halfbacks; Buddy Agniel, Kenneth Meints, Lawrence Sullivan and Jack Woods, backs.

Davenport reports his injury list is not as bad off as he expected with all boys who have complained the past week now in condition to play tonight: Cecil Hill, Alvin Meints, Bob Wild, Edwin Brown, David Pierce and Dee Carver, were suffering from bruises or slight cuts.

The team is expected to be accompanied to Marshall by a large delegation of Smith-Cotton fans all desiring to see the renewal of football games between these two teams which have been on the "outs" since about 1932.

INSPECTION TOUR OF WOODED AREAS

ROLLA, Mo., Sept. 30. — Through nature herself, rather than through speeches, delegates to the Central States Forestry Congress today sought to learn of the recent progress made in Missouri's wooded areas.

An inspection tour of state parks, game refuges and national forest areas was on the program. Delegates left to visit Meramec Springs, Indian Trail State Forest, Clark National Forest, Licking nursery and Gardner National Forest. Tomorrow they will tour the Lake of the Ozarks region.

Addressing yesterday's session, E. Sydney Stephens, chairman of the state conservation commission, asserted the "mere novelty" of the state's wild life amendment approved in 1936 "constitutes no ground for questioning its validity."

Stephens referred to a test case now before the state supreme court in which Attorney General Roy McKittrick argued the commission did not have power to overturn a legislative enactment setting fishing dates.

Under provisions of the amendment, Stephens told the conference, the commission is "empowered to deal with the problems of conservation on a local and current basis, acting upon the experience and advice of technically trained individuals who make professions of their respective fields."

"The commission can undertake to remedy evils at the time and in the place where they occur," he stated.

Stephens said he looked forward to the time when a forestry conservation program in the state would be financed by legislative appropriations from the general revenue.

A "great deal for the future" in wildlife development in the Ozarks region was predicted by Dean M. F. Miller of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Teams of Big Six To Scattered Fronts

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30.—The Big Six deployed its football forces on six widely scattered fronts today for a full weekend of engagements in at least four of which its contingents were rated underdogs.

The Oklahoma Sooners started the movement last night when 38 entrained for Houston and a clash with Rice, 1937 champion of the explosive Southwest Conference. Kansas State, 33 strong, set out early today to meet Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., and by tonight Nebraska will be headed for its Minneapolis battle with Minnesota and Kansas will be en route to South Bend to meet Notre Dame.

Only in home sectors where Iowa State plays little Luther college and Missouri meets Colorado were Big Six elevens given the nod. But Coach Don Faurot discounted Missouri's edge. "We'll be lucky to hold Colorado to a tie," he said.

With Jack Dodd back in uniform Nebraska was at full strength for the first time in 10 days in its final hard workout. The Saturday game will see the Gophers seeking to save the sting of last year's upset Cornhusker victory.

Coach Ad Lindsey indicated a definite hope his Kansans would pierce the Notre Dame defense for a touchdown or so. Apparently remembering that the Jayhawks converted only one of three tries after touchdown last Saturday, Lindsey had Chester Gibbens trying point-after kicks all yesterday afternoon and the sophomore made good on all but three of 50.

There were 10 veterans in the lineup Coach Wes Fry said he probably would start against Northwestern, but the reserves were mostly rookies, 19 of them sophomores.

Al Todd, the Pirate backstop, has poled seven homers and pushed 74 runs across while compiling a .264 mark in 128 games.

Mixing business with pleasure, a group of Sedalia bird dog enthusiasts has been spending their spare time the past week on the newly organized game management area set up through the cooperation of farm owners in the Bahner neighborhood and the State Conservation Commission. Part of this group who have been assisting in posting the grounds are shown in the above picture. They are: left to right, Harold Dean, "Milt" Abeles, Charles Goodnight, J. C. Griffin, "Dutch" Dean, and Eldon Van Dyke.

Right:—Posters which have been placed around the area by the above group of men. These posters will be replaced from time to time by the Pettis County Conservation Club.

The farms on which the Conservation Commission plans to put on a demonstration of game management include over seven thousand acres where native quail will be released each year, and where the Sedalia Field Trial Association will conduct two bird dog field trials each year. These trials in the past have brought well known bird dogs from several nearby states. Dogs that have won championship honors in trials in Canada and in the National events held in the United States are expected to show here this fall. The date of the trial is October 15th and 16th, and with favorable weather a record attendance is expected. Through the rental of horses and serving meals to dog handlers and the audience, farmers in the area will receive a very welcome addition to their incomes as a result of this event. Trials are usually held in the spring and fall when horses can be spared, and when growing crops will not be damaged.

Realizing the advantage of an abundance of quail and other birds on farming territory, the owners of land in the vicinity to be used in this demonstration have given their most hearty cooperation to the project, and have almost without exception signed five year agreements with the field trial group and the state commission to prohibit shooting and to protect the quail to be furnished by the state. Native quail, raised in state hatcheries will be used exclusively, and are expected to thrive and multiply under natural conditions. The area now being posted contains an abundance of feed and ideal cover for birds, with numerous ponds and small streams where they can obtain water. In case of severe winter weather, arrangements will be made to feed and protect the birds in this territory to insure a plentiful crop each year.

Aside from the amount of cash brought into the community by those attending these trials, thousands of dollars will be saved to the farmers each year through the assistance they receive from quail and other protected birds in keeping down insect pests. To those who have witnessed bird dog trials before, the one to be held October 15th and 16th promises the same thrills and entertainment provided in past events, in an even greater measure. To those who have never seen a trial of this kind before, a very pleasant and interesting outing is promised. Saddle horses will be available for those who wish to ride, and meals will be served on the grounds to save delay for those who would otherwise have to return to Sedalia at meal times.

DIXCELS TO PLAY ATHLETICS SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon the Dixcel Oilers will meet the Sedalia A's on the Liberty Park baseball diamond. The Oilers have been endeavoring since the first part of the season to schedule a game with the A's, and not until after they had displayed their playing ability during the summer season did Manager Potts Evans turn an interesting ear to their demands.

The proposal of the Oilers to take chances on getting anything out of their playing also interested Evans who believes he can keep the "senior" team going to set the "junior" team on the bench for the season.

Manager Evans will use either Horner or Christian on the mound while Manager Siegel intends to pitch either Sullivan or T. Simon, while Sumners will catch for the A's and O. Simon will be behind the plate for the Oilers.

Joe Tucker of Tipton has been secured to do the umpiring of the game, which will start at 2:30 o'clock.

KANSAS CITY WINS ASSOCIATION FLAG

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30—(AP)—Kansas City last night climaxed a three game comeback against St. Paul by winning the final game of the post season American Association playoff 2 to 0 for the right to play Newark in the junior world's series starting in the Eastern city Saturday night.

Marvin Breuer pitched his third straight victory of the series, allowing four hits and receiving brilliant support by Eddie Miller, shortstop. Vic Frasier was the victim. He yielded one run on a single by Miller and a double by Clyde McCullough in the seventh.

GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS TO MEET EARLY TONIGHT

CHURCH EVENTS

First-hand information concerning three of the Baptist institutions supported by the cooperative program and Home Mission offering of the Women's Missionary Society was given to the members of the W. M. S. at the program meeting at the First Baptist church on Thursday afternoon.

Howard Jones very interestingly told of the Missouri Baptist Orphans Home and of the fine care and religious training received there.

Miss Frieda Laudenburger, a graduate of the Missouri Baptist hospital stated that "we girls while in training do not lose touch with religious instruction but must attend services regularly."

"Southwest Baptist college meets all standards that Baptists could expect," said Homer Vance, Jr., a former student of that college. He enumerated the many benefits of this college, closing his talk by stating that the students who graduate go back to their home churches and accept whatever task is asked of them.

The devotional "The Open Doors of The Church," was given by Mrs. A. E. Monroe who gave scriptural references for each of the following doors: salvation, instruction, prayer, fellowship, power, service and Heaven. Completing the devotional, Mrs. Jack Lyons and Mrs. Charles Farley sang "Hark The Voice of Jesus Calling," and prayer was offered by Mrs. R. W. Leazer.

During the business session, Mrs. W. D. Kuykendall, president announced the regular bnsiness meeting for Thursday, October 6, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. W. L. Fuqua announced the committee for the Y. W. A. house party to be held October 7 and 8, the theme of this meeting to be "The Golden Heritage."

Mrs. W. O. Stanley, program chairman was in charge of the meeting and had placed many interesting and instructive pictures of the institution studied for the inspection of the members.

Mid-Continent Corp. Joins The National Salesmen's Campaign

As the National Salesmen's Crusade continues to gather momentum from coast to coast, it is announced that Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation, Tulsa, Okla., has joined whole-heartedly in this country-wide endeavor to increase employment through increased sales.

R. W. McDowell

In a recent interview, R. W. McDowell, sales vice-president, said, "Our sales plan for the fall 1938 Pool Car Campaign on Diamond 760 Motor and Tractor Oils is built around the crusade slogan, 'Sales Mean Jobs.' The fact that each gallon of motor oil or grease sold will have a direct effect upon employment is proving a great incentive to the sales force throughout the fourteen central states in which the company operates. Specifically, it is estimated that the sale of a single gallon of oil or grease will provide one man-hour of work at the Diamond Refinery, in addition to having a direct but incalculable effect upon employment in many areas through which the oil and grease must move. Diamond D-X salesmen are behind this National Crusade most enthusiastically.

"In the face of present business conditions, it is not enough to urge a salesman to work hard simply to build up his own or his company's sales volume. Every person gainfully employed today owes a certain obligation to the unfortunately large number of capable men and women who, through no fault of their own, are unable to find employment. This fact has been made clear to our entire sales force, and each man has been impressed with the thought that he is a Crusader and that he has a definite part in a great National program which has as its aim the putting of more men back to work.

This new approach in selling is proving successful and gives salesmen greater confidence and stimulates them to increased effort because of the satisfaction derived from knowing that they are actually helping men get jobs."

Every salesman, bulk agent, tank truck driver, and others connected with the sale of Diamond and D-X products in the Mid-Continent marketing territory, is wearing a large Salesmen's Crusade button as a reminder to themselves and to their prospects and customers of the goal of this National campaign to put men back to work.

There's Something brand new in Screen entertainment at the Uptown Theatre today! Something you've never seen before and picture you'll really enjoy

Six-guns bark to the rhythm of red-hot swing, ebony-hued outlaws "shoot it out" with the John Laws and love and virtue triumph in an exciting and glorious climax, as Negro romance climbs into the saddle for a song- gallop over the Western plains, turning the wide open range beyond the Rockies into an open-air Dixie night club, in "Harlem on The Prairie," the first all-Negro musical comedy, western screen melodrama starting today at the Uptown. It's one of the current season's genuine novelties and has the added distinction of being the only picture with an all-Negro cast to be accorded the honor of a first-run in one of New York's Broadway "white" theatres. In addition to a highly capable cast of well-known Negro artists, "Harlem on The Prairie" is notable for its melodious songs, the majority of which are rendered by its talented cowboy hero, Herbert Jeffries, to the accompaniment of two nationally known quartettes, "The Four Tones" and the "Four Blackbirds." "Harlem on The Prairie" is thrilling, exciting and full of action, with more than a dash of comedy. To the lover of popular songs, action screen entertainment and wholesome fun, here's a picture that will prove satisfying and delightful screen entertainment.

Can Montgomery Take It? And How!

Robert Montgomery proved that he could "take it"—literally on the run.

He was making a scene at the Glendale Railway station for "Three Loves Has Nancy," the new romantic comedy, coming to the Liberty theater, Sunday, in which he is starred with Janet Gaynor and Franchot Tone. The scene called for his chasing an observation car and catching it on a flying leap.

On the first attempt the engineer got the locomotive under way so quickly that a Charley Paddock wouldn't have been able to keep up with it.

On the second attempt Montgomery slipped on some loose gravel and fell flat, ruining his suit. Another one was sent for before the scene could be filmed.

The third time, with the engineer cautioned to take it easy and the platform swept clean, the handle of the suitcase which Montgomery was carrying broke.

He made it on the fourth try, but by this time he was wringing wet. It was only ninety degrees in the sun!

Anglo German Declaration Of Amity Is Reached Today

Mussolini might soon begin withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain as a further contribution to general appeasement.

The Anglo-German declaration signed in a two-hours earnest talk between the Nazi chieftain and the tireless 69-year-old leader of Britain signalled a tremendous new joint effort to eliminate Europe's worst threats of war.

This, Chamberlain believes, will be his incalculable reward for his unprecedented man-to-man dealings, which reached fruition in last night's accord which gave Hitler satisfaction in Czechoslovakia but also gave Europe peace.

The elderly prime minister, who took matters into his own hands when all seemed lost, returned home triumphant in the conviction his appeasement policy was justified and he was holding a powerful trump card against his critics.

"I always have had in mind that if we could find peace in Czechoslovakia it might open the way to appeasement of Europe," he said.

"I hope there will be obvious measures of demobilization taken everywhere," he went on.

Feel No Hostility

Daladier, before his departure, said "I have had the pleasure personally to establish that no feeling of hate or enmity of any kind prevails in Germany against France.

"Be assured that the French on their part feel no hostility toward Germany."

Mussolini boarded a train early today to return to receive the plaudits of his own people. His role as intermediary was held indispensable in making the Munich accord between the Democracies and Fascist powers possible.

The new Anglo-German agreement, announced by Chamberlain, follows:

"We, the German fuehrer and chancellor and the British prime minister, have had a further meeting today and are agreed in recognizing that the question of Anglo-German relations is of first importance for the two countries and for Europe.

"We regard the agreement signed last night and the Anglo-German naval agreement as symbolic of the desires of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again.

(The 1936 Anglo-German naval treaty limited Germany's naval tonnage to 35 per cent of that of Great Britain.)

"We are resolved that the method of consultation shall be the method adopted to deal with any other questions that may concern our two countries, and we are determined to continue our efforts to remove possible sources of difference and thus to contribute to assure the peace of Europe."

Chamberlain left the Hotel Regina, his headquarters here, accompanied by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, to begin his return journey to London.

As the prime minister left his hotel the lobby was packed with a cheering German crowd. Women rushed up to seize his hand. He smiled, embarrassed, but happy.

Despite a drizzling rain slanting right into people's faces a huge crowd had assembled outside the hotel and along the route his automobile followed on the way to the airport. There was endless "Heiling," saluting and cheering.

Chamberlain, tilting a cigar at a jaunty angle and wearing a German thanksgiving festival sheaf in his buttonhole, received newspapermen in his hotel suite almost immediately after returning from the fuehrer's apartment.

A sly smile played about Chamberlain's eyes and he continued to roll a cigar between his teeth as he sat at a big desk. It was an almost unprecedented interview with a prime minister of Great Britain.

Commission Is Named

An international commission to supervise transfer of Czechoslovak territory to Germany was named early today and met briefly before flying to Berlin to complete an organization for supervising details.

Named on the commission were Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin; Andrew Francois Poncet; the French ambassador; Count Ernst von Weiszaecker, German secretary of state, and Bernardo Attolico, Italian ambassador to Berlin, with the Czechoslovak minister to Berlin, Dr. Vojetch Mastny, likely to be the fifth member.

They were to supervise the occupation of Sudetenland, the selection of areas to be occupied and those in which plebiscites are to be held, and to administer other details.

The next step, it appeared, would be a meeting of ambassadors of the three powers—Britain, France and Italy—with the German foreign minister in Berlin tomorrow afternoon to implement the agreement.

Official informants said military attaches of legations and a staff of experts might assist the international commission after organization at Berlin is completed.

Europeans all over the continent sighed in relief when they learned peace outweighed war on Munich's scales.

"To whom the credit for peace?" echoed a French official to a questioner. "To four men and the will of hundreds of millions."

The fifth man of Europe sat in the Kremlin of Moscow. He was left out of the Munich talks, but whenever the four thought of what would happen if they failed, they must have reckoned with Soviet Russia's armed might captained by Joseph Stalin.

The Russian foreign minister, Maxim Litvinoff, in Geneva, left no doubt of his dissatisfaction with what the Russians called the "sacrifice of Czechoslovakia for a more terrible war later."

There were tart comments from Russians, too, about the Democratic allies who consulted them as powerful friends when war seemed inevitable, but who didn't talk over the Munich agreement with them.

Hailed as "Deliverer"

BAYREUTH, Germany, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Konrad Kenlein, leader of the Sudeten German party, today sent a telegram to Reichsfuehrer Hitler hailing him as "deliverer' of 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

"In the name of Sudeten Germandon, tormented and oppressed for 20 years, I thank you, my Fuehrer, from a deeply moved heart for the freedom which you have won for us by fighting," the message said.

Henlein on September 15 issued a proclamation calling for German annexation of Czechoslovakias Sudetenland and on the same day the Prague government ordered his arrest on a charge of treason.

He fled into Germany and announced organization of the Sudeten free corps, irregular soldiers, to harass Czechoslovak authorities along the border. On September 16 the Sudeten German party was outlawed in Czechoslovakia.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES PEACE WORKERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — President Roosevelt praised today the work of the state department and the country's diplomats abroad during the European crisis.

In response to press conference questions regarding the four-power agreement for the partition of Czechoslovakia, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters all he had to say was that a very wonderful service had been performed by Secretary Hull, Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, other state department officials and the American diplomatic staffs in various world capitals.

The work of these persons, Mr. Roosevelt said, was a fine example of team play and cooperation which met with very great success.

"Sense Of Relief"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that, following the four-power Munich agreement, he hoped efforts would be "redoubled" to maintain "principles of order under law, resting on a sound economic foundation."

The Munich agreement, he said, affords " a universal sense of relief."

DENIAL MADE OF ANY BUND TIE-UP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador to the United States, assured the state department today there was no "understanding" between the German-American bund and German envoys in this country.

The house committee investigating un-American activities was told yesterday there was such a connection. Its testimony came from John C. Metcalfe, a committee agent, who quoted Fritz Kuhn, the bund's leader.

While the ambassador was at the state department, the embassy issued the following statement, which it said was in substance what Dr. Dieckhoff told Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state:

"The German government has always taken the point of view that the Amerika-Deutscher Volksbund is to be considered as a purely American affair. There has never existed any open or secret 'understanding' between the bund and the German ambassador, the German embassy, or the German consulates."

LOUD ACCLAIM TO DALADIER ON RETURN HOME

Most of Reserves In France Still To Be Under Arms

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 30—The French government, after hearing Premier Daladier's report on the four power Munich accord, summoned parliament to meet next Tuesday.

Announcement of the call came from a cabinet session at the Elysee palace with President Lebrun presiding shortly after Daladier had returned from the conference which ended the German-Czechoslovak crisis and immediate threats of a European war.

The summons was announced after the ministers had approved unanimously the premier's report on the Munich conference. It was expected that the chamber and deputies would be asked on Tuesday also to vote approval.

PARIS, Sept. 30—(AP)—Cheering crowds acclaimed Premier Daladier today as he landed at Le Bourget airdrome from the "big four" conference in Munich yesterday.

Almost 500,000 persons lined Daladier's five-mile route from the airdrome to the war ministry in a vast outburst of joy and relief.

As the premier alighted, crowds at Le Bourget broke through police lines and surrounded him screaming, "Peace! Peace!" Women, many of them almost hysterical, threw flowers in his path as he was escorted to his automobile by mobile guards. A military band played France's national anthem and a delegation of war orphans presented him a bouquet of red roses.

"The negotiations certainly were difficult, but I have the deep conviction that the accord which was concluded was indispensable to maintenance of peace in Europe," Daladier told the throng as he stepped from his plane.

"I also am certain today that, thanks to the desire to give mutual concessions and a spirit of collaboration which animated the action of the four great western powers, peace is preserved."

In the broad Place de la Concorde, another huge crowd massed to acclaim the premier as his automobile passed.

Keep Reserves Under Arms

PARIS, Sept. 30—(AP)—France, despite hopes for peace held in the four-power Munich agreement will keep most of her reserve forces under arms until after the Sudeten territories have been relinquished to Germany.

Official circles today confirmed Premier Edouard Daladier's intention to keep the army at its highest pitch until the complete liquidation of the Czechoslovak-German crisis and said Daladier would call a cabinet meeting for this evening or Saturday morning.

The thanks of Paris for Premier Chamberlain's work on behalf of peace was sent the British prime minister by the president of the municipal council, Le Provost de Launay, who wired: "Paris gives you thanks. Paris hopes for the pleasure of expressing its gratitude to you soon in this city."

Certain opposition was thought to be facing Daladier on his return home. Communists and left-wing Socialists regarded the premier's Munich trip as a concession in itself to Germany.

Communists declared the four-power meeting "wished by Hitler does not tend toward anything other than to divide the peaceful forces of various countries whose union alone is able to avert war."

A formal Communist declaration added: "On the fate of Czechoclovakia depends the fate of all Europe. To save peace it is first of all essential to save Czechoslovakia."

Left-wing Socialists insisted the safety of France depended "on the maintenance of Czechoslovakia in her present form as a bulwark against Germany."

ORGANIZE HOSPITAL PLAN FOR FARMERS

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 30—(AP)—The nation's first group hospitilization plan for farmers was organized in Missouri today by the state farm bureau federation.

The Marion County Farm Bureau began canvassing its members on the plan to provide hospital care for stricken farm families as the opening step in a campaign which the federation believes eventually will reach farm homes in at least 50 counties.

"Large city groups have had group hospitilization for several years," said Chester G. Starr, director of the farm plan, "and we decided the farmer needs it as bad as anyone so we're going to try it.

"Cash is scarce with the farmer. We found several cases where serious consequences had resulted simply because the family didn't have the money to go to the hospital for proper care."

Underthe federation's group plan individuals will pay $2.25 once every three months. Entire farm families will pay $4.50. The payment entitles any member of the family to 21 days' hospital care a year, use of operating rooms and most other standard hospital services. All farm bureau members under 65 years can join.

HOMECOMING OF CHAMBERLAIN A TRIUMPHANT ONE

program he announced to the house of commons Feb. 20 when Anthony Eden resigned as foreign minister in protest against Chamberlain's "realistic" dealings with dictators.

"If we can bring these four nations (Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy) into friendly discussion," he said then, ". . . we shall have saved the peace of Europe for a generation."

Responsible political observers agreed the prime minister, by his refusal to believe the four powers should go to war, brought them to a stage where agreement was possible.

Prelude To Larger Peace

"Settlement of the Czech problem which now has been achieved," Chamberlain said, "is in my view only a prelude to a larger settlement in which all Europe may find peace."

Smiling broadly, the prime minister waved his hat at the excited thousands with schoolboy enthusiasm.

He held up for the crowd to see, the joint declaration he and Reichsfuehrer Hitler signed this morning in a private talk after the four-power conference.

Then he read:

"The German chancellor and myself regard the agreement signed last night and the Anglo-German naval agreement as symbolic of the desires of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again."

First, however, the prime minister told the crowds there were only two things he wanted to say:

"First of all, I have received an immense number of letters during all these anxious times.

"So has my wife—letters of support and approval and gratitude—and I cannot tell you what encouragement that has been to me."

"I want to thank the British people for what they have done, and next, I want to say that settlement of the Czechoslovak problem, which now has been acshieved, is in my view only a prelude to a larger settlement in which all Europe may find peace.

"This morning I had another talk with German chancellor Herr Hitler and here is the paper which bears his name on it as well as mine.

"Some of you, perhaps, already have heard what it contains, but I would just like to read it to you."

AROUSED OVER STATEMENT OF RETIRED OFFICER

Secretary of War Woodring Critical On One of Gen. Moseley

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—War Secretary Woodring termed "flagrantly disloyal" today a statement issued by Major General George Van Horn Moseley upon Moseley's retirement from the army.

Retiring on reaching the statutory age of 64, Moseley, one of the army's outstanding commanders, criticized administration relief and other policies in his statement, issued at Atlanta.

Moseley was commanding general of the Fourth Corps area and the Third Army, with headquarters in the Georgia city.

Woodring, in a formal statement, said:

"Because he was disappointed in his ambition to become chief of staff of the American armies, Major General George Van Horn Moseley has celebrated his retirement from military service by assailing the federal government and, by inference, attacking his commander-in-chief.

(President Roosevelt is commander-in-chief of the army and navy.)

"As to the reasons that General Craig (General Malin Craig, army chief of staff) was preferred for the important post, I do not think any one needs to look farther than to read General Moseley's flagrantly disloyal statement.

"Though he retired today, he continued to be an officer of the army, receiving the inactive pay which in his case is approximately $6,000 a year."

At the war department, there was no indication any disciplinary action was contemplated.

Critical on "Domestic Scene"

ATLANTA, Sept. 30—(AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retiring as commandant of the Fourth Corps area and the Third Army, today said the United States faces danger of "decay within."

Moseley, ending 43 years of active service, decried, as a private citizen, "the unfortunate attitude of some of our government officials" and declared the army "stands firm as the one stable element in an unstable and shifting domestic scene."

Maj. Gen. Stanley D. Embick succeeds Moseley, one of four officers to receive the distinguished service medal twice.

Moseley issued a statement deploring "that in America our successful men of demonstrated ability can seldom be induced to run for political office" and added: "In addition to a lack of outstanding leadership, our government has recently suffered from an indigestible mass of untried theories and ideas upon which we have lavished the greatest peacetime appropriations in our nation's history."

"We do not have to vote for a dictatorship to have one in America," he said. "We have merely to vote increased governmental responsibility for our individual lives, increased government authority over our daily habits, and the resultant federal paternalism will inevitably become dictatorship."

CHEER ADVOCACY OF PROCESSING TAX

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Sept. 30—(AP)—By an overwhelming "sitting" vote wheat farmers of a dozen states who heard Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace speak here yesterday repudiated a challenge to the AAA program advanced by one of its most outspoken critics, Dan Casement, of Manhattan, Kas.

Casement asked that all opponents of the AAA in the crowd, estimated by city officials at 1,500, stand after they had heard his denunciation of "planned economy." The meeting's chairman, Guy Josserand, president of the state board of agriculture, hesitated but when he called for the vote only a few stood.

To calls of "Now the other vote" Josserand replied, "Well, we'll all get up when we leave anyway."

The assembled farmers cheered the New Deal cabinet member's advocacy of a processing tax for wheat as an alternative to price-fixing proposals.

They booed Casement as he rose to assail the AAA program as "bribery to farmers" and to declare that "we can't have planned economy in a democracy and if this is carried through it will destroy our democracy."

The crowd cheered when Josserand praised the Manhattan stockman for his "courage and ability."

STOCKS SOAR AS WAR SCARE ENDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Stocks swept upward 1 to more than 5 points in todays market as Europe's war crisis collapsed.

Heavy overnight buying orders from all parts of the country and abroad swamped the stock exchange during the first half hour's dealings and the ticker tape was behind as much as 2 minutes throughout this period as large blocks of the favorites changed hands at soaring prices.

The feverish rush to get aboard the ascending van lost momentum near the second hour and, from then on the proceedings were orderly. Transfers for the full session were around 1,900,000 shares.

Profit taking came into the picture after the initial burst of speed and extreme gains were reduced in some cases at the close.

Adding steam to the extension of Thursday's rally was the "big four" peace agreement reached at Munich, and later accepted by the Czechs, whereby the Reichs would be permitted to gradually take over the Sudetenland beginning tomorrow.

On top of this, markets were further stimulated by announcement Great Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Muehrer Hitler had discussed new Anglo-German anti-war measures which gave a further tang to the general peace movement abroad.

Bonds generally exhibited strength. Most rail loans were leading gainers although Nickel Plate bonds, as well as stocks, dropped sharply as the question of the road's meeting a maturity tomorrow became urgent.

Industrial commodities tilted forward, but grains sank as war talk faded. Wheat at Chicago was off 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents a bushel and corn yielded 1¼ to 1½ cents. Cotton, in late transactions, was up about 45 cents a bale, which was a recession from top quotations of the forenoon.

SEES FALLACY IN POLITICAL CONTROL

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 30.—Increasing support of a policy of less government control over the employer-employe relations drew attention of American Federation of Labor officials and delegates arriving today for the Federation's annual convention next week.

Matthew Woll of New York, third vice-president, told a preliminary conference:

"I think the developments abroad have clearly indicated the fallacy of labor trusting everything to political control."

He added action of the metal trades union this week in asking revision of the Wagner Act and the wage-hour law indicated the Federation was returning to the principles of Samuel Gompers who "had a fear of the government entering into the labor relationship."

WOULD SEPARATE FROM THE TREATY

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—The assembly of the League of Nations today accepted the principle of separating the League covenant from the Versailles treaty.

The League of nations was born of the post-war peace pact and the covenant—its constitution—was written into the Versailles treaty.

Approval of separating them, coming a day after the Munich conference on Czechoslovakia, paves the way for erasure of one of Germany's main argument membership.

The assembly accepted the recommendations of a subcommittee for the separation. The governments in the assembly now must ratify the recommendations which were made in the form of an amendment to the covenant.

TWENTYSIX DEAD IN CHARLESTON STORM

CHARLESTON, S. C. Sept. 30.—This historic city by the sea dug out today from the wreckage strewn by a raging tonado, and counted the storm's toll at 26 dead, 200 injured, some seriously, and property damage estimated at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Four companies of state militia augmented by soldiers from nearby Fort Moultrie and marines from the navy yard, aided civilian authorities in patrolling the debris-covered streets, along which many of the city's famous landmarks were destroyed or damaged.

Col. Harry O. Withington, of the 118th infantry, South Carolina national guard, commanding the troops, said there was no disorder and no looting.

Fourteen of the dead were white, and 12 were Negroes.

INCREASED LOANS ON COTTON SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Eight senators and two congressmen unanimously endorsed a demand for increased government loans on cotton and wheat today and then sought an audience with President Roosevelt.

Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the senate agriculture committee, asked the White House for an appointment, to outline what he and his associates described as a "desperate' form situation. Previously the group adopted a resolution calling for an increase to the maximum legal limits of 11.85 cents a pound in the loans on cotton and 84 cents a bushel in the wheat loan.

The department of agriculture now is lending 8.3 cents a pound on cotton and an average of 59½ cents a bushel on wheat.

The group rejected a resolution by Representative Rankin (D-Miss) calling on the President to issue currency against the government's gold reserve, to raise the price of cotton to a minimum of 18 cents a pound.

DISMISS SUIT OVER THE QUINTUPLETES

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Dr. Allan R. DaFoe returned today to "my five little girls"—the Dionne quintuplets—after winning dismissal of a $1,000,000 damage suit.

The suit was filed by Ivan I. Spear, a Chicago promoter who signed a contract for exploitation of the quintuplets with their father, Oliva Dionne, soon after their birth.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes ordered the suit dismissed late yesterday on grounds that no evidence had been presented to show that the defendants had conspired to break the contract, as alleged by Spear.

The defandants, in addition to Dr. DaFoe, were Pathe News, which photographed the babies, and the Woolworth and Kresge store chains, which sold books and pictures of the quints.

Dr. DaFoe, who delivered the famous sisters, said:

"I m not surprised at the decision. I have never been surprised at anything since the night the five babies were born."

IN A STEP-UP FOR AUTO PRODUCTION

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—An advance of approximately 25 per cent in automotive production for the second consecutive week was reported today by Ward's automotive reports, which predicted a "pronounced advance in auto industry operations during the period ahead."

Ward's estimated this week's production of cars and trucks at 25,405, as compared with 20,390 last week and 44,330 in this week a year ago.

The Power of Witnesses

In our judicial courts decisions are based upon the testimonies of witnesses. Much is made of the testimony of witnesses in the advertising program of commodities. There is inspiration in numbers even if they are only witnesses, as evidenced in large attendances at games, political meetings and public demonstrations.

In religion the witnessing power is even greater than the sermon. It is said that the pagan nations are Christianized not by pulpit messages, but by the good example of Christians. In our home land the same is true. One is a very poor witness for Christ when habitually absent from the church service.

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

The Southeastern Sacred Harp Singing Association met in Birmingham, Ala., the last week in July for a three-day convention at which old-time mountain songs and religious ballads which had never been published were revived and sung. Some 4,000 delegates attended.

The repertoire includes songs of the Elizabethan period of the Reformation, and those composed by unknown mountain bards in the Carolina hill country during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. The songs have been preserved by persons who sing them today and are sung only as they are remembered.

Statements proclaiming "the bankruptcy of the religious system" are being circulated in many countries, to be presented at the International Congress for Free Thought to be held in London, September 9 to 13. The statements load upon the Church all the violence, brutality and intolerance so prominent in the world today. Since atheism is increasing as rapidly as crime, why not attribute the increase of evil to atheism?

The sons of ministers are frequently on dress parade and each time with a new grouping. It is pointed out that John Hancock and eight other signers of the Declaration of Independence were ministers' sons. One out of every nine Presidents of the United States have been preacher's sons; and one in every four administration has had a minister's daughter for a wife. One of every five in the New York City Hall of Fame is a minister's son or daughter. Samuel F. B. Morse, Cyrus W. Field, Edwin Jenner, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Woodrow Wilson, Orville and Wilbut Wright and Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith each had a minister father.

What is the challenge of Christian leadership?

No task in all the world makes larger demands upon leadership than Christian work. A good leader must be Christian, first of all, and must use scientific methods in his work. Often the most influential leaders in the church are least conscious of themselves as leaders. They have accepted the challenge of a task and are giving themselves wholeheartedly to it. Such leaders are continually seeking knowledge. They not only read but they think and test the facts which come to them through reading. They seek the counsel of persons engaged in the same task and of persons with wider experience and knowledge. They grow as Christian workers because they live abundantly.

The fellowship of the church provides opportunities for persons regardless of what their talents may be. Thus the church can provide opportunities for the use and development of those creative instincts which, too often, lie dormant because of misfits in the world of work.

The worker must have inspiration, materials, and tools for his work, as well as help at the point of his individaul need. This involves an investment of time and money in personality. It is important that churches develop leaders who can guide the growth of persons responsible for her program.—Selected.

The Better Way

Privilege of Living

"God's greatest gift to you at present is just the privilege of living. Not your ability to acquire 'things,' nor your power to hold them after they have been obtained; but just to live, to know, to think, to love, to have faith; this is life, and it is every man's greatest possession.

Your greatest work is to do good. Not to a friend only, nor to some 'worthy' one; but to friend and to foe, to good and to bad, to rich and to poor. To make all life richer by pouring your good into it. This is your greatest work.

Your greatest outlet flows out through your words. Not through your gifts, nor through your genius, nor through your learning; but through your speech. True and kindly words are like noble ships at sea; they bring the riches and rare treasures of the unknown realm of one soul, and give them to another."

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The One True God. Exodus 20:2, 3; Isaiah 45:22; Mark 12:28-34; I Corinthians 8:4-6, for Sunday, October 2.

The fact that God exists is the greatest truth which one can know. It is the primary truth on which a sound philosophy must be based.

V. 2. "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage." While we assume there is a God there are many lines of reasoning to justify such an assumption. A created universe calls for a Creator; there can be no moral order without a moral being back of it; since personality appears, the best thing in the universe therefore, therefore God must be personal else he has given to creatures something better than himself possesses. God is best revealed in His word. It was the burden of the Old Testament teaching that there is one God. This fact was clearly demonstrated in the marvelous deliverance of Israel out of Egypt.

V. 3. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Two gods would make a conflicting religion. If God is not supreme, he cannot reign in life.

V. 22. "Look unto me and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else." McLaren interprets this text as follows: The greatest possible offer ("be ye saved") to the greatest possible number ("all the ends of the earth"), with the greatest possible guarantee ("for I am your God") on the easiest possible terms ("Look unto me.").

Vs. 28, 29. "Which is the first commandment of all? And Jesus answered him, the first of all the commandments is, Hear, O, Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord." Jesus bases his gospel on the fundamentals of the Old Testament, one being that fact of one God. All catch questions and criticisms fail to overthrow the great truths of God.

V. 30.—"And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; this is the first great commandment." Here is put in concrete language what is involved in the first commandment. Here is the escence of Christianity. It is the "all" that makes the requirements supreme. It is not enough to love the Lord a little.

V. 31. "And the second is like, namely, this Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is no other commandment greater than these." Here is the basis for the social gospel. But first there is the individual gospel of the preceding verse. Here is the cure for war, the principle of good government, the policy for a happy community.

Vs. 32, 33. "And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth." All men may well agree with this answer. But results depend on how well the agreement is made whether an intellectual assent or a determined will with a motivating force.

V. 34. "And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou are not far from the kingdom." Here was a good moral man using his mental powers rightly and being in accord with the sentiment of the truth. The right sentiment has its place but it takes more than sentiment to make Christian character.

V. 4. "As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice to idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is none other God but one." Paul had been asked whether Christians might eat meat that had been offered to idols, a serious practical problem of that day. He affirms the basic truth regarding deity, "there is none other God but one." When the question of God and our relation to Him is settled, all other problems will settle themselves.

V. 6. "But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things and we by him." Co-equal with God is Jesus Christ who came to earth to reveal him. To know God we must know Jesus. God is like Him. In essence God, Christ and the Holy Spirit are one, the triune God.

The One True God. Exodus 20:2, 3; Isaiah 45:22; Mark 12:28-34; I Corinthians 8:4-6 for Sunday October 2.

1. What attributes are essential to the personality of God?
2. Why is the conception of God important in any religion?
3. Why is the first commandment placed first in the decalogue?
4. How does the living Christ help us put God first in life?
5. Upon what basis or what rule can we decide for ourselves questions concerning things in which there is a diffenence of opinion?

Clericus says, "A god has been defined as any person or any thing exalted as the chief good, or made the object of supreme devotion; anything that absorbs one's attentions and aspirations."

Lesson Prayer: "We would exercise our will in determining that in our thoughts and desires we would make God and His kingdom first."

ALASKAN PICTURES TO BE SHOWN AT CHURCH

Many friends have been anxious to see some of the colored films taken by Dr. Cannaday on his recent Alaskan tour. An opportunity of seeing these pictures by Sedalia friends is given Sunday evening at the evening service at Broadway Presbyterian church. Among the pictures may be seen the city of Juneau where Dr. Waggoner's brother has been a missionary for the past thirty-seven years. Also the home of Mr. Barteu, brother of Mrs. Waggoner, who resides at Van Couver. The scenes along the Yukon river, the mountains and glaciers are wonderful. All friends are invited to the service.

Home Education

A Real Home

Edward Earl Puriton in his book "Efficient Living" in describing a real home says

"A real home is a gymnasium because it has a program to give the child a healthy body; it is a lighthouse because it reveals breakers ahead, and shows a clear way past them; it is a playground providing for innocent games and sports; it is a workshop where the child is taught to do things; it is a forum where honest and open discussions of life's great problems are helpfully conducted; it is a secret society where family loyalties are sacred; it is a health resort where mothers are natural physicians; it is a co-operative league where the interests of each is made the interest of all; it is a temple of worship where the child learns of a Heavenly Father whose love finds a ready response in the heart of the child.

2. Is it good manners for a shopper to smoke when she is trying on dresses?
3. Does a person of good breeding indulge in careless smoking habits—reasoning that it doesn't matter if he ruins the carpet in a store or hotel?
4. Should one make a habit of returning purchases?
5. Is it good taste to try to impress salespeople?

What would you do if—

You meet friends on the street and want to talk to them for a minute or two—

(b) Walk along with them?
(c) Stand in the middle of the sidewalk and let people walk around you?

2. No. Many dresses are ruined that way.
3. No.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a) or (b).

INSTALLATION OF CHURCH OFFICERS

The officers and teachers of the Calvary Baptist Bible school were installed last evening in a service led by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Sumners. A miniature reproduction of the Calvary church building had been made by Mrs. B. B. Bradley. After the singing of "To The Work," the pastor read Nehemiah 4:1-3 and 19-23. The superintendent, Forrest Merriott was then called forward and was presented a key to the church, which he unlocked finding in the doorway a chest of seven drawers to be opened by the seven superintendents of the Bible school. As he called each of them to his assistance he presented them with a miniature key which unlocked one of the drawers in the chest. As the chest was unlocked drawer by drawer the following tools were taken from it, to be worked with for the next 12 months: The pastor, the deacons, finance committee, flowers committee, music committee, faculty and Bible, stand of excellence and church regulation.

The superintendents installed were: Dr. Carlisle Taylor, adult; Mrs. A. L. Lindsey, young people; Mrs. J. R. Durham, intermediate; Mrs. E. E. Swafford, junior; Mrs. L. C. Griswold, primary; Mrs. George Hall, beginners; Mrs. Wills, cradle roll. The teachers in the respective departments joined this group—all joining hands and singing together, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Loss of Hearing May Result From Infection Remote From Ear

Modern civilization places greater stress on hearing as an aid to living. The coming of the motor car and speedy transportation, development of the radio, the talking motion picture, are examples of the changes that have brought about this stress. Today the person who is hard of hearing is definitely more handicapped economically than was the deafened person of 1900.

As I have pointed out in this column before, there are many different causes of hardness of hearing. Sometimes it is hereditary, sometimes it is the result of mechanical blocking of the external canal, sometimes it is the result of infection.

Notwithstanding the fact that an infection of the middle ear reveals that the human being has tremendous power of recovery, there are some cases in which repeated infections or inflammations result in destruction of the sense of hearing. Fortunately, modern medical science recognizes the danger of chronic or long-continued infection and takes the necessary steps, such as surgical perforation of the ear drum.

Perforation in order to relieve infection is a measure for preserving the hearing rather than diminishing it. Unfortunately there are many people who believe otherwise and who put off far too long the necessary operation.

* * *

Continued infection of the sinuses, the teeth, the nose, and the tonsils may result in chronic irritation inside the ear which will produce loss of hearing. In such cases, the loss of hearing is gradual and does not receive the attention until it is too late.

The most common cause of loss of hearing is otoscelrosis. In this there are changes in the internal ear, so that there is limitation of the movement of the bones which by their motion convey sounds. The exact cause of this condition is not known.

Among other diseases, syphilis is particularly a cause of deafness because it can reach the nerves which are primarily responsible for hearing. Another cause of deafness is heavy gunfire, or repeated loud explosions.

Nowadays there are many ways in which the person who is hard of hearing can be helped, including lip reading, which is of the greatest importance. There are all over the country, in association with the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, numerous classes in which lip reading is taught.

For cases of otosclerosis, operative procedures have been developed which are still under trial as an experiment in medicine, but which are known to be helpful in many cases. However, the most widely used method is the use of a hearing aid.

An instrument has been developed called the audiometer, by the use of which it is possible to measure the exact loss of hearing and then to provide a hearing device which makes up for this loss.

Many experts in hearing are convinced that the vast majority of people who are deaf will do just as well with a suitable hearing aid as they will by any surgical procedure.

• RAISING A FAMILY

One time a friend asked me who had the harder time raising a family, father or mother, I thought a moment, then something gradually crystallized in my thoughts. I said, "The father," which made her very angry.

Possibly I didn't mean it the way it sounded but I did mean it, for I had been in the position one time of having to dig up the wherewithal to support my children and myself. It was during the war and for a few months at first I had no money except what I earned. I had no way at all of even being sure I could get work.

Fortunately teachers were few, some of them making better money in business offices and even at physical labor. So I went and taught school.

Must Keep Going

For the first time I realized what it meant to a man first to have a job, second to keep it, and last but not least, to stay well and be there every morning at eight-thirty, good weather or bad, headache or none.

Then I did take sick and it was flu. The terrible kind that often killed as it struck. We all had it. But again, fortunately, the schools closed and no teacher was "docked" to pay her substitute. But in those weeks, I had plenty of time to worry.

What if I never got strong enough to go back? What if those legs of mine that stayed like jelly for months, it seemed, would finally betray me altogether and I would have to quit?

Everything turned out all right, eventually, and I taught two years. But later, when my husband came home, there were periods when he was ill.

I knew then, at last, how he felt and the dread he had of losing his health, altogether. Things that I had taken for granted for years now became acutely clear in my mind. I knew how any man felt with a family depending on his ability and strength. Let either one or the other be reduced in salable quantity and only disaster would result.

A woman is directly responsible for welfare in the home itself. She has her worries and the stinging experiences that may be compared evenly with her husband's. So it is hard to decide, really, who has the harder job. But I still think that a man with a wife and children to support, needs a greater fortitude to carry him through than a woman. That is, if he takes his burden to heart and looks facts in the face.

I am telling all this only to make a point. For so many wives who see their husbands do the disappearing act every morning, think of them only as having a sort of holiday while they, the wives, stay at home to face what is often the bitter music. Some men, it is true, do have it easy compared to the trials their women are experiencing. But most of them work for all they get and, after a day of strain to please a testy boss, come home in a much more amiable mood than they might.

To mark the 25th anniversary of the opening of the Panama Canal to world commerce on Aug. 15, 1914, the Canal Zone will issue a special series of stamps next year. The issue will consist of 10 or 12 values ranging from one cent to one dollar.

President Roosevelt suggested the set when he visited the Canal Zone several months ago. At his suggestion also the stamps will show scenes of the canal at the time of building and as it is today.

At the same time plans are being considered to issue a special series of airmail stamps next Feb. 6 to mark the 10th anniversary of the arrival at the Canal Zone of the first airmail from the United States. Col. Charles Lindbergh piloted the ship.

In order to assure an early start on the 1939 U. S. philatelic program, the Post Office Department plans to complete issuance of the set of 32 "presidentials" by Christmas. These new stamps, to replace the regular issue of 1922-23, are now coming out at the rate of one a week and sometimes two a week.

* * *

The U. S. Post Office Department may now build eight or 10 philatelic trucks instead of one to tour the country with displays of all U. S. issues. The first truck will likely begin its tour in October.

Publicizing the 53d annual convention of the American Philatelic Society at New Orleans, Oct. 10-14, a three-color poster sheet has been issued by the Crescent City Stamp club and the Philatelic Society of New Orleans. For further information address William H. Wynne, P. O. Box 1620, New Orleans, La.

In connection with the anniversary on Oct. 7 of the Battle of Kings Mountain during the Revolutionary war, the Kings Mountain chapter of the D. A. R. will sponsor a cachet for collectors. Address Mrs. Harry E. Neil, York, S. C., for detailed information.

Interesting new issues: Papua—five-value commemorative airmail series to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the British possession; Netherlands—three values marking the 40th anniversary of the reign of Queen Wilhelmina. In the same design these stamps have been issued for Curacao and Surinam. A four-value set has also been issued for Netherlands East Indies.

ACHIEVEMENT DAY FOR 28 CLUBS AT PARK THURSDAY

Exhibits, Demonstrations And Program Ends By Installation

Twenty-eight Home Economic Extension clubs, with membership of approximately 800, participated in the annual Home Economics Extension Club Achievement Day in Convention Hall, Liberty Park, Thursday.

Mrs. L. E. Shepherd, chairman of the county council, was in charge of the program. The roll call was answered by the president of each club giving a total membership and the number of club members present. The county chorus, under the direction of Mrs. W. P. Tucker, sang a group of songs, "Calm as The Night," by Carl Bohm; "Dreaming," by Harry Rowe Shelley, and "Bell of St. Mary's," by E. Emmett Adams. Mrs. Lewis Leaton was accompanist.

An original skit on posture by South Abell Club demonstrated the value of daily exercise in health.

A one-act play, "New Rugs from Old Rugs," was given by the Dresden club under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Ferguson. The Maplewood club also gave a play, "Three Potatoes," under the direction of Mrs. Richard Barrick.

A dress revue by the Sunnyside club demonstrated modern styles in house dresses.

Mrs. Wesley Harding of the Van Natta club demonstrated the method of canning fried chicken.

Special music and novelty numbers were given by the Friendship Club of La Monte, Longwood, Oak Grove, Georgetown, Hughesville and Hopewell Club.

Reports of special activities were given by South Abell, Oak Grove, Prairie Ridge, Champion Striped College and Smithton clubs.

Officers Installed

The concluding number was the installation of 1939 officers and council members in the form of a candle service. It was especially fitting that Mrs. Harry Sneed, who has been a pioneer in home economics education not only in Pettis county but in the state and nation as well, should be master of ceremonies in the first program of this type. At the beginning of the candle service, Mrs. J. U. Morris sang "God Will Take Care of You."

One of the main features of the Achievement program were the exhibits placed by seventeen clubs. These exhibits covered a variety of projects which have been carried in the extension clubs. General handwork exhibits were shown by the Bowling Green, Champion Striped College, Friendship, Georgetown and Bois D'Arc clubs. Generally, these exhibits stressed the use of otherwise useless material in making attractive and useful articles.

General displays showing food products, handwork and clothing were shown by the Liberty, Longwood, Prairie Ridge and Lovelace club.

In the foods division, the Flat Creek club displayed the amount of canned and stored food necessary for one adult for a year on a liberal diet basis. The Ringen club showed the requirement for one adult for a year on a minimum-cost adequate basis. The Maplewood club showed a day's food supply for an underweight person, overweight person, and average person. The Van Natta club showed the variety of vegetables that can be canned from farm products.

The Ionia club showed a variety of ways of making rugs for the home. Sacks of all descriptions were used by members of the Dresden club to make articles of clothing and furnishings for the kitchen, dining room, living room and bedroom.

Two exhibits showed the making of better bedding. All the steps in the making of a feather mattress were shown in the exhibit by the Blackwater Progressive Club. The Quisenberry club showed the steps in the making of a wool comfort, beginning with the raw fleece and carrying it through to the finished comfort.

The largest exhibit was a flower show placed by the Smithton club. They showed a dining table completely set and many flower arrangements for the various rooms in the home.

The cooperation of all committees and clubs in the county made possible the most successful achievement day that has been held.

SEDALIANS TO BAR CONVENTION

Several Sedalia attorneys will join with others from all points of the state to discuss various phases of legal practice at the fifty-eighth annual convention of the Missouri Bar Association, which opened today in St. Louis.

Don Lamm, who is chairman of the state Grievances and Ethics committee, Lee Montgomery and John Martin left Thursday for St. Louis, and John Z. Montgomery this morning. They all expect to return Sunday.

Other local attorneys may go to St. Louis tonight or Saturday morning.

W. Wallace Fry, of Mexico, president of the state association opened the convention this morning. Thurman W. Arnold, assistant United States attorney general, and Frank J. Hogan, president of the American Bar association, will address the closing banquet Saturday night on the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Officers of the state association for the coming year will be elected at the Saturday morning meeting.

Defeat Bond Issue

MARSHALL, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Voters rejected two proposed bond issues totalling $126,000 by narrow margins here Thursday. A $36,000 proposal for a Negro high school had a mapority but lacked the two thirds necessary for passage, and a $90,000 municipal building issue barely lacked a bare majority.

His Friends Remark How Well He Looks Since KruGon's Use

Digestion So Upset a Glass of Milk Would Bloat Him; Sedalia Man Had No Appetite(Many Nights Were Restless and Sleepless For Mr. Todd; KruGon's Action Makes Him Happy

KruGon, the laxative-tonic formula, is primarily a great system purifier with an action on the intestinal tract that is surprising to many. This modern capsule remedy cleanses the bowels as they should be cleansed, removing foul impurities that may have been poisoning the system continually and being the real reason for awful aches and pains in the muscles and joints; night risings and backaches; indigestion, gassy bloated feeling after eating, loss of appetite; dizzy spells, biliousness, nervous spells from faulty elimination. Read what Mr. John H. Todd, 808 East Broadway, Sedalia, a well known local gentleman who has lived here for the past nineteen years, said recently in talking with the KruGon Man at the McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 West Main street:

MR. JOHN H. TODD

"It was about ten years ago I began to have trouble with the foods I ate," said Mr. Todd, "It seemed that there was nothing I ate that would agree with me. Soon I was having attacks of indigestion after every meal I ate. Even a glass of milk upset me causing me to bloat until I could hardly stay in my clothes. I soon lost my appetite, had no desire for foods for to eat meant only misery to me. I could not rest or get my sleep at night and would roll and toss by the hour. Naturally I was always tired and worn-out to begin each day. I was badly constipated and it seemed my whole system was clogged with impurities. It was in this condition that I began to take KruGon and now it has done so much for me."

"I did not expect such complete results as this laxative-tonic formula gave me," continued Mr. Todd, "I am on my second box now and feel so much better in everyway. My system was easily given proper elimination, poisons were removed from my body and I showed rapid improvement. I no longer have those restless nights, sleep good the whole night through. My appetite has improved too, eat and enjoy the foods I want without that awful discomfort afterwards. Even my friends have remarked how much better I look and I don't hesitate to tell them that I give all credit to KruGon for my present good health."

The KruGon Man is daily meeting the local public at the McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 West Main Street, Sedalia, where he is introducting and explaining the action of this valuable remedy.

GIVE DALADIER A 'BIG STICK' FOR PEACE PARLEY

Empowered To Put The French Nation On Full War Footing

SOVIETS WATCH MUNICH CONFEREES

Opinion Position of Hitler Is Being Strengthened

PARIS, Sept. 29—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier was given a "big stick" to wield at the Munich conference today when he was empowered by a new decree to effect instant military and civil mobilization of the entire nation.

The decree, published in the official journal, made it possible for the premier to put the whole French nation on an instant war footing by a simple telephone call from Munich.

It authorized the government to proceed at its discretion with integral mobilization of man power, industry and finance throughout the nation.

The decree said only "execution of measures contained in the law of July 11, 1938, is authorized," but that law provides for complete mobilization in time of war, or danger of war.

The law also includes general mobilization of armed forces, and Premier Daladier now is in a position to order it when and if he considers it necessary, without further legal steps.

Under the law, women as well as men, may be conscripted for defense work. All industry could be nationalized immediately under the national defense ministry.

It effects all French men and women over 18 years.

The law also provided for unifying armed forces of France under a single national defense chief of staff—in this case General Maurice Gustave Gamelin.

Thousands Quizzed

Four thousand persons, mostly foreigners, were questioned in a police roundup through Paris in a drive against undesirable aliens. Forty-five were arrested, probably to be expelled from the country on the grounds their residence permits are not in order. The nationalities were not made public.

The Thursday edition of the Royalist paper L'Action Francaise was seized by police after carrying an attack on Alexis Leger, secretary-general of the foreign ministry, who is with Daladier at Munich, and other officials of the foreign office.

The government used war time police power to check a campaign for "peace at any price" by the Rightist, former premier, Pierre Etienne Flandin.

The law applicable by today's decree provides heavy fines and prison terms for persons refusing to obey military authorities.

Direction and coordination of air raid protection services is put under the ministry of war, which drafts the thousands of men and women needed for those services.

The workers in national defense industries may be mobilized immediate upon word from Daladier.

The new law gives the government complete control of foreign trade.

The exact nature of the contemplated financial measures was not specified.

The move against L'Action Francaise followed the suppression of the newspaper La Liberte last night.

Senator Jean Taurimes, a crippled war veteran, resigned from former premier Pierre Etienne Flandin's Democratic Alliance party in protest against the latter's campaign seeking "for France to refuse to honor the signature of her treaty with Czechoslovakia."

Pessimistic In Moscow

MOSCOW, Sept. 29—(AP)—Soviet Russia, watching the four-power Munich conference from the sidelines, took the pessimistic view today Prime Minister Chamberlain was only strengthening Adolf Hitler's hand by attending the parley.

This view was expressed in the government newspaper, Izvestia, in a Geneva dispatch which assumed added importance because of Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff's presence there.

The dispatch called the idea of the Munich conference "monstrous" and said France would pay a high price for her participation.

"Up to now British concessions to Hitler have been torn from the living flesh of Czechoslovakia," it said. "At this conference of four France inevitably will pay for her friendship with England."

Not only is Chamberlain making his "third trip to Hitler," it continued, he is strengthening the fuehrer's position by "adding another aggressor" in the circle of negotiators.

"One can hardly imagine," it said, "what decisions will come out of such a 'conference.' One can easily imagine the role of France in this partnership of four in which two aggressors will dictate their will while a third participant (Chamberlain) will seek in every way to satisfy the first two."

In Soviet circles there was a tendency to regard the conference of the heads of German, French, British and Italian governments as an intensification of efforts by "bourgeois imperialist statesmanship" to strike a bargain with aggressors at the expense of small countries.

The Soviet position has been that conferences should be for the purpose of uniting peaceful nations against aggressors—not attempting to bargain with aggressors.

In conformity with this policy the Soviet government last night cordially welcomed President Roosevelt's suggestion of an international conference to unravel the Czechoslovak crisis and offered "to take an active part in such a conference."

TENSION LESSENS IN MENACE FOR WAR IN EUROPE

Roosevelt And Hull Appear Pleased Over Turn of Events

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—President Roosevelt has appealed, informed persons said today, to many nations to use their good offices for peace in central Europe.

Dispatches concerning his efforts have come in from points as distant as Tokyo, Rome, Moscow and Oslo, Norway.

White house and state department officials declined, however, to say how many governments had been approached or to disclose the context of the president's messages.

It was indicated the first of them went out several days ago. The message to Rome asked Premier Mussolini to do what he could to avert war.

The presidents of many Latin-American nations not only telegraphed Hitler and President Benes of Czechoslovakia but also Mr. Roosevelt congratulating him on his initiative.

Belgian Ambassador Count Straten-Ponthoz conferred this morning with Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state. Later the ambassador told newsmen Belgium would keep out of a European war. He praised Mr. Roosevelt's appeals for peace, saying he believed they had had some effect.

Seem Confident

President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull were represented by informed officials today as feeling reasonably confident that some orderly settlement of the Sudeten problem would come from the four-power conference in Munich.

There was a noticeable lessening of the tension evidenced in official circles earlier in the week when to many there seemed scant hope of averting war.

Officials said this government would not have a diplomatic observer at the conference, but that the embassies in London, Berlin, Paris and Rome would keep informed as to its progress.

They indicated the United States would refuse—if it were asked—to accept any responsibilities arising from the meeting such as arranging for the transfer of the Sudetenland, or a portion of it, to Germany and for the transfer of populations.

Some officials speculated that an international commission, possibly backed by an international police force, might be set up to keep order in the Sudetenland while the shift in sovereignty was being made. This was done in the case of the Saar region lying between France and Germany.

In the talk of possible American assistance in any transfer of territory, it was recalled the help of American experts and money were given freely in the historic transfer of Greek and Turkish populations in 1923.

FISH FRY AT RALLY HERE OCTOBER 8.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 29—(AP)—James P. Aylward, state Democratic chairman, today called for all party county chairmen and vice-chairmen to attend a rally at Sedalia Oct. 8 which will open the fall campaign.

Richard R. Nacy, Jefferson City, chairman of the Democratic campaign organization committee, will preside over a meeting of the county officers in the morning.

Aylward also announced a fish fry would be held preceding the speaking program which will feature United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

FOUR LEADERS OF HOUR IN PARLEY SEEM HOPEFUL

Hitler, Mussolini, Chamberlain And Daladier In Fateful Meet

OUTCOME BEING ANXIOUSLY AWAITED

Bavarian Crowds On Streets Cheer Prime Minister Chamberlain

MUNICH, Sept. 29—(AP)—Informed German sources said tonight that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had agreed that the German army would make only a "parade occupation" of the Eger and Asch regions, extreme western Czechoslovakia, on Oct. 1 and 2.

Other sections of the Sudetenland are to be occupied only gradually, these informants said, under the plan said to have been accepted by the fuehrer in place of his original intention of having his armies march in Saturday with flags waving.

This token occupation, however, would show symbolically that Germany had become the master of the regions of Czechoslovakia whose population is predominantly German.

This disclosure came as Hitler still was in conference with the premiers of Britain, France and Italy in the parley from which Europe hopes for assurances of its peace.

Would Strike Balance

A compromise plan for settlement of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands on Czechoslovakia which informed quarters expected to emerge from today's four-power conference strikes a balance between the original Anglo-French scheme and that proposed by Hitler.

Hitler had proposed at all costs to march into Sudetenland with bands playing and, if necessary, with guns booming, on Saturday.

The Anglo-French proposal was designed to prevent Hitler from employing force, which automatically might have brought the French-Czechoslovak treaty into operation.

This might have drawn Soviet Russia into the fight immediately. Britain, as France's ally, might have had to follow suit if France were attacked, and a general war would have been on.

The reported compromise plan permits Hitler to start taking over on Saturday with his army but without guns booming. Detachments of British, French and Italian armies would march in with the Germans to make it look less like a German invasion.

Czech Minister To Munich

PRAGUE, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government announced today it had agreed in principle and with some reservations to a British proposal for gradual application of the French-British plan to cede the Sudetenland to Germany.

Vojetch Mastny, Czechoslovak minister to Berlin, was sent by airplane to Munich to tell the four-power conferees there of the Czechoslovak position.

A new border clash on the Sudetenland frontier with Germany was reported. Czechoslovaks charged some attacking Sudeten Germans wore the field gray of German army uniforms.

NEW JAIL PROJECT IS PROBLEMATICAL

Whether Pettis County will have a new jail, paid for partially with a PWA grant is problematical at the present time because it is necessary for the county to add approximately $19,000 to the amount of the grant, approximately $16,000. The $19,000 is not available, according to the county court, for use for this purpose.

If the county had a surplus of $19,000 in its general revenue fund it could be used for the jail, but any surplus in the road and school funds cannot be appropriated for this purpose, or any other purpose except that for which it is intended, according to a decision of the attorney general of the state.

The money could be raised by a bond issue, subject to the will of the people, but the county court hesitates to ask the citizens to vote on a bond issue at the present time.

If, at the end of the year, the county court finds that there is a surplus in the general fund, which the court states cannot be determined until it is known how the expenses are going to run, it may be possible to appropriate the sum needed. Otherwise a bond issue may be called later.

MOBERLY APPROVES BOND ISSUE FOR AUDITORIUM

MOBERLY, Mo., Sept. 29—(AP)—Voters approved bond issues of $88,000 for a city auditorium and $80,000 for school additions by wide margins in a special election here yesterday.

ATTORNEYS PLAN TO FIGHT FOR FEES

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Glenn C. Weatherby, one of three Kansas City attorneys whose $137,500 fee allowances in the 10 per cent fire insurance case were invalidated by the state supreme court, said today they would "fight" for the fees.

"We plan to sustain the judgments of the Cole County circuit court," Weatherby said. "The fees are just. We worked six years in the restitution case and saved 2¾ million dollars for distribution to the policyholders."

John T. Barker and Floyd E. Jacobs were the other lawyers granted the fees by Circuit Judge Nike Sevier. The supreme court ruled Judge Sevier had no authority to make the awards from an impounded fund.

POWER OF PRAYER IN URGED WHILE WAR THREATENS

Pope Pius Broadcasts A Message To Clergy And Faithful

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI asked the world today to have "recourse to the unarmed but invincible power of prayer' to avert "the imminent danger of war."

The Pope broadcast his message over a vast radio hook up.

It was in the form of a pastoral letter addressed to the bishops, clergy and faithful, and read to them by the holy father.

The Pope spoke under the shadow of the meeting at Munich where the heads of western Europe's four most powerful governments were meeting to find a peaceful solution of Germany's demands on Czechoslovakia.

The Pope said:

"While millions of men are still living in dread because of the imminent danger of war and because of the threat of unexampled slaughter and ruin, we gather into our paternal heart the trepidation of our children and we invite the bishops, clergy, the religious and the faithful to unite themselves with us in the most undaunted and insistent prayer for the preservation in justice and in charity of the peace.

"To this unarmed but invincible power of prayer let people have recourse once yet again so that God, in whose hands rest the destinies of the world, may sustain especially in these moments in those who govern confidence in the pacific ways of faithful negotiations and of lasting agreement, and that he may inspire in all sentiments and action corresponding to the reiterated words of peace which will be suited to foster peace and to establish it on the secure basis of low and of the gospel teaching.

"Grateful beyond words for the prayers which have been and are being poured out for us by the faithful of the whole Catholic world, with all our heart we offer for the salvation and for the peace of the world this life, which in virtue of those prayers the Lord has spared and even renewed.

"Let the Lord of life and death, if He wills, take from us the inestimable gift of an already long life, or, if he so wills, let him prolong still further the laborious days of this afflicted and worried toiler.

"Our offer is all the more assured of gracious acceptance because it is the morrow of the liturgical commemoration of the meek and historic martyr, Saint Wenceslaus (Czechoslovakias patron saint), and because it is the eve of the feast of the holy rosary and of the celebrated supplication of the month of the holy rosary when all over the Catholic world will be multiplied, as we also earnestly recommend, the fervor and frequency of devotion which has already on many occasions brought about the great and beneficient intervention of the blessed Virgin in the destinies of afflicted humanity.

"It is with the full confidence that these recollections inspire that we give to all the great Catholic family and to all the human family our parental benediction."

The Pope, who spoke for five minutes, concluded with his benediction in Latin.

SEDALIANS BEFORE FEDERAL JURY

Between twenty and thirty Sedalians, summoned by the federal grand jury in Kansas City, were before that body Wednesday and Thursday.

Most of those summoned are employes of the WPA and the questioning involves the WPA, according to the district attorney's office. All inquiries in the grand jury room are of a confidential nature until indictments are returned, if they are returned, and nothing was made public as to the nature of the questioning.

HOPES BRIGHTER FOR EARLY ASSURING PEACE IN EUROPE

OCCUPATION OF TERRITORY BEGINS OCT. 1

Other Areas Will Be Ceded After A Plebescite

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 30.—(Friday) — (AP) — Heads of western Europe's four major powers early today signed an agreement they believed would prevent a European war by sealing the fate of Czechoslovakia.

The agreement reached by statesmen of Britain, France, Germany and Italy, provided for gradual occupation of parts of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten areas starting Saturday—the deadline Adolf Hitler set for acceptance of his ultimatum.

The No. 1 statesmen of the four powers—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, Premier Edquard Daladier of France, Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Benito Mussolini—signed the accord after hours of debating the war threat for which most of Europe was preparing.

No Czech Acceptance

Spokesmen said Czechoslovakia has not accepted the plan. Vojtech Mastny, Czecholovakia minister to Berlin who came here at the suggestion of the British, was closeted with Daladier and Chamberlain early today.

An unimpeachable source said, however, the action of Britain and France in making themselves "responsible for the steps necessary" to fulfill the agreement meant just this:

If the Czechoslovaks refuse to accept, France cannot come to their aid in case of an attack and Britain, which is pledged only to support France, cannot be drawn in.

Additional Provisions

1. Evacuation of the Sudetenland to be completed by Oct. 10, without damage to existing property there.

2. An international commission comprising representatives of the four powers, together with Czechoslovakia, to lay down details of the evacuation.

3. Plebiscites to be held in other areas of Czechoslovakia having German population.

4. The right of option granted for residents to move into or out of the areas to be ceded to Germany.

The four powers decided on another conference within three months to settle the question of Hungarian and Polish minorities in Czechoslovakia, if agreement is not reached between these parties in the meantime.

Four zones of preponderantly German population were marked for quick occupation by German troops by Oct. 10 and any remaining territory with preponderantly German population will be determined by the international commission for occupation also by that date.

The commission will fix the date for the plebiscites not later than the end of November.

Britain and France agreed to join in an international guarantee of new Czechoslovak boundaries as provided for in the original Anglo-French partition plan.

Life or Death to Millions

With the powers' preparations for war still going forward, the question of life or death for millions hung on their decisions.

The Bavarian street crowds roared for each group as automobiles bearing delegates back to the Fuehrerhaus whizzed through the streets, but loudest applause was that for Britain's prime minister, chief mover in the effort to avert war.

Four times the crowds roared as one by one, Daladier, Chamberlain, Hitler and finally Mussolini and their escorts sped back to the scene of the fateful conference.

Cheers For Chamberlain

The cheers for Chamberlain rolled along, block after block. Spectators knew well ahead that he was coming, for they could hear shouts of "Chamberlain! Chamberlain!" as his car approach.

The prime minister waved his black hat to the crowds of Southern German, who cheered louder when they saw his broad smile.

"Things must be going better," was the frequent comment.

As Hitler passed he seemed too busy with his own thoughts to give more than a preoccupied smile and stiff salute to his people.

Last came Mussolini, preceded and followed by two huge touring cars loaded with blackshirted aides and guards.

As the chant "Duce! Duce!" rose along the broad Munich streets Mussolini sat straight and smiling with hand raised in the Fascist salute.

New Occupation Plan

During the suspension British officials told of a new plan for German occupation of the Sudetenland that had been submitted and indicated belief it would be accepted.

German official hopes for peaceful agreement were shown when a government spokesman suggested that correspondents come to the Fuehrerhaus, scene of the conference, only an hour after resumption of the talks was scheduled.

Possible Outcome

As the German delegation saw it the following was likely to be the final outcome of the negotiations of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain, Premier Daladier and Premier Mussolini:

1. The German army, with the approval of the other big powers, would enter only the Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia as a demonstration of their cession on Oct. 1.

2. In the so called doubtful areas, in which population is divided about equally between Sudeten Germans and Czechs, contingents of the British, French and Italian armies would safe guard a plebiscite, from which there would be no appeal.

3. Plebiscites also would be conducted in Czechoslovakia in which the population is preponderantly Polish or Hungarian.

A German government spokesman did not know at the moment whether foreign armies—either Polish for the Polish speaking districts or Hungarian for the Hungarian areas, or British-French-Italian forces—would supervise the plebiscites there.

4. The results of all plebiscites would be binding on the Czechoslovak government.

5. Germany would become a co-guarantor with the other powers concerned of the independence of what then would be left of Czechoslovakia.

6: Hitler will not insist on the resignation of President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia.

A German spokesman made it plain, however, that Germany expects him to resign voluntarily. "Benes already has his money in Switzerland," he said sarcastically.

7. Germany will reaffirm her guarantee, given by Hitler in his address in the Sportspalast in Berlin Monday night that he will make no further territorial demands on the European continent.

Elucidating the German position, the spokesman expressed the belief that Benes had made the same mistake that was made by Kurt Schuschnigg, the last chancellor of independent Austria, now prisoner of the Nazis in Vienna.

This was in underestimating the extent of the desire of all Germandom to be united with the Reich of the Nazi regime.

The spokesman referred to the Czechs in most disdainful terms. "We don't want them," he said. "We offer five Czechs for every German. Besides, it is against our racial principles to have people not of our blood as part of our nation."

The idea of having international forces police the plebiscites in doubtful areas, he said, was taken from the experience of the plebiscite in the Saar region, as a result of which the Saar returned to Germany in 1935.

As to the regions where the population was overwhelmingly German, he said, there obviously was no need for a plebiscite.

He added that Britain and France realized this. Also, the municipal elections in May and June had shown it.

The spokesman said the new, reduced Czechoslovakia would become a permanently neutralized state like Switzerland and Belgium.

Asked whether the question of reparations for damage done by Czechs to property of Sudeten Germans figured in today's talks, the spokesman said, "that's a question for later discussion."

Regarding the German troops' entry into Sudetenland, he said: "I do hope conditions will be such that they can go in not with steel helmets but with their peacetime caps."

The German army, he said, later would be followed by the Sudeten free corps.

Continue War Praparations

Europe, while hoping for peace, continued to prepare for war. Britain's mighty fleet was mobolized, France decreed power for Daladier to effect immediate complete mobilization and as this was written Hitler's motorized legions were rolling toward the frontiers.

Nazi swastikes, many of them showing the wear of hard and frequent use, rippled everywhere in the sultry air with, here and there, an Italian flag or a bright, new British Union Jack.

Accept "In Principle"

PRAGUE, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government announced today acceptance "in principle" but with "some reservations" of a new British plan for execution of an Anglo-Frenche scheme to cede the Sudetenland to Germany.

A communique announced that Prague "adopted a positive attitude in principle toward British proposals regarding the execution, by degrees, of delimitation and of transfer of the territories."

The acceptance was made known to Great Britain before the four-statesman parley opened today in Munich.

The Czechoslovak note did not specify the nature of the new British plan but it was believed it concerned technical measures for speeding up the cession of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German areas to Germany under an Anglo-French plan Chancellor Adolf Hitler rejected at a conference in Godesberg, Germany, with British Prime Minister Chamberlain on Sept. 22.

Official Communique Issued At End of Conference

MUNICH, Sept. 30.—(Friday)—(AP)—The official communique issued at the end of the four-power conference follows:

Germany, the United Kingdom, France and Italy, taking into consideration the agreement which has already been reached in principle for cession to Germany of the Sudeten German territory, have agreed on the following terms and conditions governing the said cession and the measures consequent thereon and by this agreement they each hold themselves responsible for the steps necessary to secure its fulfillment:

First—the evacuation will begin on October 1.

Second—the United Kingdom, France and Italy agree that the evacuation of the territory shall be completed by October 10 without any existing installations having been destroyed and that the Czechoslovak government will be held responsible for carrying out the evacuation without damage to the said installations.

The conditions governing the evacuation will be laid down in detail by an international commission composed of representatives of Germany, the United Kingdom, France, Italy and Czechoslovakia.

The international commission referred to in paragraph three will determine the territories in which a plebiscite is to be held. These territories will be occupied by international bodies until the plebiscite has been completed. The same commission will fix the conditions in which the plebiscite is to be held, taking as a basis the conditions of the Saar plebiscite. The commission will also fix a date, not later than the end of November, on which the plebiscite will be held.

There will be right of opinion into and out of transferred territories, the opinion to be exercised within six months from the date of this agreement. x x x x

A German-Czechoslovak commission shall determine details of opinion, consider ways for facilitating the transfer of population and settle questions of principle arising out of the said transfer.

The final determination of the frontiers will be carried out by the international commission. This commission will also be entitiled to recommend to the four powers, Germany, the United Kingdom, France and Italy. In certain exceptional cases minor modifications in strictly ethnographical determination of the zones which are to be transferred without plebiscite.

The Czechoslovak government will within the period of four weeks from the date of this agreement release from their military and police forces any Sudeten Germans who may wish to be released and the Czechoslovak government will within the same period release Sudeten German prisoners who are serving terms of imprisonment for political offences.

OVER A SCORE DIE IN A STORM AT CHARLESTON, S. C.

Tornado Injuries Probably 300 or More In Historic City

BUILDINGS DOWN TREES UPROOTED

President Roosevelt Urges Immediate Aid To Stricken City

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 29—A tornado hit historic Charleston with sudden and vicious fury at about 8 a. m., today, killed at least 25 persons and injured probably 300 more in a welter of wreckage that was spotted throughout the city.

The sudden storm of not more than a minute's duration in any one place, was paced by a torrential downpour as it swept down with devastating destruction on various parts of the city.

Of the 22 reported killed, 15 were negroes. The dead were not immediately identified except these four white persons:

Mrs. Ruth Mehrtens, 26; Irvin H. Mehrtens, 3, Miriam Zeigler, 14, and Floyd Singletary, 9, all of 25 Market street, were killed when their house collapsed in the twinkling of an eye.

An emergency call was sent out from Roper hospital, Charleston's largest, for all physicians to report there immediately as the injured were being brought there by every available conveyance.

Ruin Historic Buildings

Many of the city's history-steeped buildings were in ruins. St. Michael's Episcopal church, erected long before the Revolutionary war, was considerably damaged as well as the old market place.

A negro Baptist church in the heart of the city was demolished, but it was unoccupied at the time.

The roof of the city hall was blown away, and the Timrod Inn, a small hotel, in the same vicinity was badly damaged.

Charleston's beautiful Battery, a mecca for tourists, was stripped of many fine old trees and debris littered its park.

In every direction as far as the eye could see, there was a vision of unroofed buildings and other wreckage.

Manning J. Rubin, city editor of the Charleston Evening Post in which vicinity on Meeting street, the tornado did much damage, said he was "dazed by the sudden fury with which the storm struck.

"I was on my way to work and had just parked my car in a torrential downpour," he said. "when I heard an almost deafening roar. I did not see any buildings collapse. It did not last more than thirty seconds or a minute at the most in the neighborhood I was in.

"As soon as I got to the office, a stone's throw away, I saw that all the electric power was off. Looking from the window I noticed the roof of the Timrod Inn had disappeared. As far as we could see from the windows of the office, Charleston presented a picture of wrecked buildings and uprooted trees."

"The storm apparently dipped into all parts of the city with a toll of wreckage every where it touched," Rubin said.

Aid Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, head of the Red Cross, said today that 25 bodies had been recovered and 340 persons had been injured when a tornado struck Charleston, S. C.

Davis, a caller at the White House, said the report was received via naval radio.

Thirty city blocks, he said had been damaged by the tornado and 100 houses blown down.

President Roosevelt already had ordered the army, navy and the Works Progress Administration to render all possible aid to the stricken city.

The president acted in response to a telephone request from Lieutenant Governor J. E. Harley of South Carolina.

Harley advised the chief executive that there was "considerable property damage and loss of life," in Charleston.

The South Carolina governor, Harley said, is in Oklahoma and cannot be reached. The legislature is not in session to take any action, he added.

Under the president's orders, Early said, the navy is dispatching marines from the Charleston navy yard and the war department is sending troops from Fort Moultrie.

Officers of South Carolina National Guard units reported the situation had gone beyond their control, Early asserted.

Besides the army, navy and WPA, Early said the Red Cross also would give immediate aid in Charleston.

OPEN THE MIND AND LET A LITTLE LOGIC IN

American newspapers have had a good deal to say lately about the "betrayal" of Czechoslovakia. England and France, so the story goes, have sold the little country down the river, and have cravenly made peace with Hitler by ignoring their responsibilities.

Well, this all my be true enough. The Czechs have had a raw deal, and the big muscle-man of Europe is riding high, wide and handsome.

But it hardly becomes Americans to say too much about it.

Responsibilities in this Czech affair go back a long way—20 years or more, to the time when the nation was put together out of the wreckage of Austria-Hungary. And it just happens that it was the United States that was largely responsible for it.

* * *

The plan for a Czech nation was evolved in this country and was put over by President Wilson. The Czech constitution was framed in the United States. The League of Nations, devised to see that differences such as the one now raging between Czechoslovakia and Germany were settled peacefully, was pretty largely an American invention.

So if we are ging to do any talking about responsibility for what happens to the Czechs, we can't escape taking a share of that responsibility ourselves.

It is nearly 20 years since we decided that we didn't want any of that responsibility. We stayed out of the League of Nations and refused to ratify the Versailles treaty. Since then we have repeatedly insisted that we were going to follow a policy of isolation.

Certainly it is our privilege to act that way. Probably it is the wisest course we could follow.

But we ought to be consistent.

* * *

We can't logically blame other nations for making the same sort of decision that we made years ago, or for ducking a responsibility which we ourselves have ducked long since.

The trouble with us is that we want to have it both ways. We want to stay out of trouble in Europe—and let's pray that we succeed!—but we also want to hand out a lot of free advice to other nations on how they should act.

Such a course doesn't make sense. Isolation implies indifference to what happens abroad. If we are going to stick to isolation as a policy, we might well start cultivating an attitude of indifference. For if Europe's quarrels are none of our concern—well, then there isn't any logic in getting concerned about them.

I'm learning to talk rough enough now to make the ranch go.—Mrs. Roma Ware, former New York society figure who has taken up ranching in Nevada.

The world is like a cubist painting which is all foreground. What does it mean?—The Rev. George A. Buttrick of New York.

They're lit up enough.—Mayor William E. Kane of Woburn, Mass., turning out the lights on a jail full of intoxicated prisoners.

I would classify this as a pleasant movement.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, on the recent rush of foreign capital to the United States.

It's just like any day in the House of Representatives. — Representative Bruce Barton of New York, at a noisy celebration of the Circus Saints and Sinners Club.

MOOD NEWS

It's too early yet to come out flatly with any predictions, but it looks from here af if the Rev. C. E. Buchholz of Richmond, Va., has probably got something.

Moods, says the Rev. Buchholz, who has been studying the findings of a University of Pennsylvania experiment, always succed each other in a certain definite order, and you can always count on them doing that because there's practically nothing you can do about it.

Everybody's "mood cycle" goes like this: very happy; happy; hopeful; interested, co-operative; pleasant, but not markedly so; indifferent; slightly unpleasant; uninterested; angry; sad; apprehensive, gloomy. When you've completed the cycle you start all over again.

There appears at once, of course, the vision of doing a little straightening around in this world by gearing the schedules of all important activities to the participants' mood-cycles. Let diplomatic conversations, for instance, be arranged in the hopeful stage, held in the co-operative and pleasant-but-not-markedly-so stages, and then adjourned till the same stages roll around again. Let rulers be allowed to consider declarations of war only in the uninterested stage.

Let there be blue laws prohibiting everybody to do anything but sit at home and write poetry in the sad and gloomy stages.

But of course all this would necessitate careful planning ahead, and if man could attain that kind of planning he wouldn't have any need to go to such an extent. Oh, dear.

CLEWS ON THE FARM

Two stories that have appeared on nature-stunting on the farm may be evidences of nothing but two farmers' horticulturally adventurous tendencies, or they may be something else again.

One man in the west has been growing more kinds of fruit on a single tree than you can count on the fingers of both hands. Another man way over in New Brunswick has come through with an apple tree that bears 60 varieties of apples and two varieties of pears.

Let everyone hope that this is just good, clean fun, and maybe it'll be just that. The time being one of epidemics in the field of speculation, a man can't help finding himself speculating on the possibility that these everything-from-one-tree adventures may be a new step toward universal self-sufficiency, which is getting to be the obsession of the age.

There appears the vision not merely of more and more self-sufficient nations but of highly self-sufficient individuals within the nations, fulfilling all their needs from a few everything-trees, a combination grain-and-vegetable plot, and, say, a super-machine-shop-and-dairy.

This would be dandy if there didn't also arise the vision of these self-sufficient individuals following the intellectual and emotional patterns some of the nations with the self-sufficiency bug are setting today. A man hates to think of a whole world full of people busy thumbing their noses at one another.

CLUB OVER THE HEAD

Gentlemen:

Now that the situation has become an old one, doubtless you never give a second thought to those harmless Thursday afternoon excursions of the lady of the house to the Literary Club, or the Friday night session of the World Problem group, It's just the regular thing.

But . . . well, there's no use being an alarmist about these things, but, gentlemen, maybe it's time to pay a little more attention. Something is rearing its ugly head in New York that's hard to view with perfect equanimity when you consider what its implications may be. For what is believed to be the first time in history a college is setting out to give women formal and intensive training in all the activities involved in women's club leadership, and at the same time a large women's organization embarks on the same course on its own hook.

What has been a part-time recreation becomes a science. They're going at it in deadly earnest now. They're getting out the heavy guns, fellows. You've given them the inch, and now they're on the second mile. They're taking over, gentlemen, and you might as well start shopping around for your apron today.

We prefer to be feared rather than loved, and we care not if we are hated because we have nothing but contempt for those who hate us.—Benito Mussolini.

Nothing will take the kinks out of a workingman's back as effectively as ballet dancing.—Kenneth Whitney, machinist of Pueblo ,Calif.

High Producing Dairy Herd In Association

Registered Jersey herd at the Hillview Farm, near Hughesville, which was the high producing herd the Pettis County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of August.

During the month of August, the 20 herds in the Pettis County Dairy Herd Improvement Association had 340 cows on test of which 27 were dry. The average production per cow was 563 pounds of milk and 23.9 pounds of butterfat. The Association had 22 cows that produced over 40 pounds but under 50 pounds of butterfat and 17 cows that produced more than 1,000 pounds of milk. The high producing herd and the high producing cow in the association were at the Hillview Farm, near Hughesville. Only 18 cows were on test in this herd during the month of August, however, additional cows have been purchased and at the present time 38 cows are on test. The average pounds of fat produced in this registered herd of Jerseys was 36 pounds and the average amount of milk produced was 757 pounds.

The high producing cow which comes from the same herd was the three-year old registered Jersey, Forward Noble Greta May. During the month, she produced 49.3 pounds of butterfat and 986 pounds of milk. The sire of this cow is You'll Forward Financier, and the dam, Wexford Noble Greta. The dam is in the herd at the present time and on test. She is eight years old and in 267 days has produced 387.3 pounds of butterfat and 8,216 pounds of milk.

The five high producing herds were as follows:

J. U. Morris, county extension agent, is calling the attention of these and other dairymen in Pettis county to the planning of the dairy pasture program for 1939. He states that the plan should include the use of a number of crops that will supply an abundance of pasture for at least ten months of the year and at the same time supply the required amount of grain. For fall and spring pasture, winter barley sown now may be used and should be sown at the rate of about two bushels per acre. Good seed should be used as well as preparing a good seed bed. If the barley is sown on medium to thin land, it should be fertilized. Next spring, lespedeza may be sown with the barley and used as a pasture crop or soybeans may follow the barley for a legume hay crop for the dairy herd.

Elmer Adams, a dairy farmer of Blue Springs, Mo., seeded 25 acres of barley on August 10, 1933. This barley was pastured through 34 days in the fall of 1933 and 34 days in the spring of 1934. It carried during this period 195 animal unit days per acre. According to Mr. Adams, during the whole period of grazing the barley pasture furnished more than one-fourth of the total feed consumed by his cows. In terms of value of commercial feed saved, this pasture was worth $15.16 per acre. The barley on the Adams farm was produced on Summit Silt Loam land.

DRURY COLLEGE OPENED 65 YEARS AGO

Springfield School Named For One of its Benefactors

Springfield, the trade center of the Missouri Ozarks and "the Athens of the Southwest", was an ideal location for a "New England college." It may never be known in whose mind first originated the idea of establishing a Congregational school in Springfield, but it is not surprising that the town should have been selected as the center of an educational venture in the southwest.

The first co-operative move to secure a Congregational college in the southwest occurred at a meeting of the Springfield Association of Congregational churches of southwest Missouri at Springfield, on March 23, 1872, when a committee of three was appointed to consider the best means of establishing a college within the limits of the association. The location was to be determined by the amount of local aid and the prospects of securing a desirable number of students. Dr. N. J. Morrison of Olivet, Michigan, hearing of the project, visited Springfield in March, 1873, and proposed to raise $50,000 among his friends providing a local subscription of $50,000 could be obtained. Under the leadership of Rev. J. H. Harwood and his brother, C. E. Harwood, of Springfield, the residents of that city soon raised their quota and the school was located there by one-half of one vote.

Springfield college was incorporated on August 5, 1873. It opened on September 25, 1873, sixty-five years ago this week, with an enrollment of thirty-nine pupils, seven of whom were Indians, and with a faculty of three. Before the close of the first year the student body increased to 126, a new member was added to the faculty, and the school was re-incorporated as Drury college.

Like many other educational institutions, Drury had its financial difficulties. The auspicious beginning of over $100,000 was more than half wiped out by the collapse of Jay Cooke and Company and the commercial catastrophe that followed. Through the efforts of Dr. Morrison, the first president, Samuel F. Drury, also of Olivet, Michigan, was led to identify himself with the institution, and in recognition of his financial contribution the college was named in memory of his son, Fletcher Drury. Mr. Drury's original pledge was $25,000, but the estate from which it was to be paid was not sufficient to cover the entire pledge and only an approximate $15,000 was actually received. Dr. Morrison, during a fourteen year period, raised through his own personal efforts and planning almost $400,000, and through the years thirteen persons have made gifts of $25,000 or more to the college. These thirteen are: Valeria G. Stone, Charles E. Harwood, Mrs. Albert Marty, Charles C. Cole, O J. Hill, John T. Sturgis, William G. Swinney, Alice L. Thrasher, Louise Groesbeck Wallace, Chas. Fairbanks, Daniel Kimball Pearsons, Margaret Klock Armour, and George B. Couper. All except the last three donors were Missourians.

Dr. Morrison was an educator as well as a financier, and from the beginning Drury, like the New England colleges from which it was planned, was a liberal arts college where high standards of intellectual efficiency were maintained.

From a small but noble beginning the present forty-acre campus and excellent buildings developed. During the summer of 1873 the first building, a two-story brick, was erected at a cost of $7,000. This was soon followed by a frame building to house the music department, and in the period following that time eleven modern buildings were erected on the campus.

The school has been fortunate in its donors of scientific and literary collections. The Edward M. Shepard Museum was named for the man who presented to the college his excellent collection of specimens illustrating the different branches of natural science. An almost complete collection of flora of Greene county, classified and labeled by Dr. Joseph William Blankenship, forms a part of an excellent herbarium, and mineralogical and geological collections of Dr. T. U. Flanner and Professor Sanborn Tenney form one of the outstanding collections of the State. Among the most valuable literary contributions are the Dr. Constans Goodell and John Winthrop libraries.

'MACHINE' OUT TO GET STARK HIRTH CHARGES

Mayor Dickmann Also Shares Farm Leader's Verbal Rebuff

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 24.—(AP)—William Hirth, Missouri farm leader, in a blistering attack on the methods followed at the recent state Democratic convention, declared tonight "any doubt' that "the Pendergast machine is out to get Governor Stark" has been removed.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann of St. Louis, keynote speaker at the convention in Jefferson City, also shared in Hirth's verbal rebuff.

Hirth, defeated by Stark for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1936, condemned the convention's failure to refer to the governor by name in the party platform and its omission of "all reference to the heroic struggle the governor has made during recent months for an honest ballot."

Refers to Dickmann's Talk

"In his keynote address," Hirth said in a prepared statement, "Mayor Dickmann omitted any reference to the governor, and that he did this in order not to displease Mr. Pendergast there can be little question.

"Therefore since the St Louis mayor is known to have his eyes on the governorship, does this mean that he is making a bid for the support of the powerful Kansas City organization in two years from now?"

"Another unmistakable sign that the machine intends to keep on doing business at the old stand," Hirth said, "was the demand of Senator Clark that James P. Aylward, a high priest in the Pendergast machine, should be made chairman of the state Democratic committee, and this when under the courageous leadership of Governor Stark the voters have recently given this machine the first smashing defeat in its history.

Led Around By "Boss"

"Just why the distinguished senator continues to let himself be led around by the nose by the big Kansas City boss is something that deeply puzzles those who helped him to lick that boss six years ago.

"More than ever Stark is fighting with his back to the wall, and what are the people of Missouri going to do about it? * * * Time will tell. But in my opinion when the next showdown comes between Stark and the machine the people will flock to his side in a manner that will make the primary victory seem like a sideshow in comparison—whether the most corrupt political machine in the nation shall continue to run the state government of one of our greatest American commonwealths is the issue, and I have no doubt of the final outcome."

School Lunches

An adequate school lunch is essential if our Pettis County rural school children are to make the most of the opportunities that school offers. Ideally, all who have their noon meal at school, would be served the same well planned lunch. In rural communities the lunch problem is probably most easily solved by bringing a box lunch from home and supplementing this with one nutritious dish cooked or heated, at school. Sandwiches, milk, a raw fruit, a vegetable and a sweet added to this one hot main dish would make an adequate school lunch.

The main dish should be nourishing and appetizing. Creamed vegetables, meat and vegetable stews, nourishing soups rich in vegetables or milk or both, beans or other legumes, eggs prepared in some simple way, cheese prepared in white sauce or tomatoes, and scalloped dishes if the equipment includes an oven, are suitable main dishes. They offer plenty of variety so that there need be no duplication for several weeks. It is important to plan lunches far enough ahead to make sure that the main dishes of each week include all of the kinds of food essential for good nutrition.

Two different methods of supplying a hot dish have been found satisfactory. One is to prepare the hot dish at school, the other is to have the children bring food in a sealed jar that can be heated in a boiler at school. In the first plan, one main dish is prepared at school each day by the pupils under the supervision of a leader or teacher. Well worked out plans for preparing and serving the lunch, and for cleaning up after the lunch, are made by the group. These plans state the definite responsibilities to be assumed by individual members at stated times. A committee for cooking and a committee for cleaning up may be appointed each week. The cooking committee decides what dish will be prepared each day and submits the menus to the leader and teacher who help work out the proportions and make decisions in regard to getting the needed supplies. The week's menus should be decided upon and put on the blackboard or a copy given to each pupil to take home so the lunch brought from home will fit in with the hot main dish. The cooking committee prepares and serves the lunch either to the pupils at their desks or cafeteria style. Most of the preparation of the food is done before school or at recess time, but some school time is needed to prepare and serve the food. The clean up committee washes the dishes and sees that the equipment, the supplies and the school room are left in good condition. By this plan all the children have one hot dish for lunch. The club members have the opportunity to work together for the good of all, to develop initiative, a sense of responsibility and the spirit of cooperation. Club members learn to cook food at home for the family and at school for a larger group of people. All the school children will learn to eat and enjoy a greater variety of food and to become more interested in forming good food habits.

In the second plan, a nourishing main dish is prepared at home and taken to school in a jar, or a thermos bottle. At recess time the jars are placed on a rack in a pan, a roaster or a wash boiler, water is poured into the container. The container is covered and placed on the stove to heat. Each child is served at noon the jar of food he brought from home. This plan takes less of the members' time with fewer interruptions in the usual routine of the school work for cooking and dish washing. Plan II for the school lunch can be carried on when it would be impossible to have a satisfactory place to cook, wash dishes and store the equipment and supplies. The cost of equipment is very little.

The disadvantages of the individual jar method: All the children will not bring the jar of food to be heated and often the children who need it most will not have it. They do not learn to eat a greater variety of foods. If all the children are served the same things, new foods are more favorably accepted. Members do not have the chance to work with other children and to enjoy the opportunity of doing for others. This plan does not develop as much initiative or ability to take responsibility.

Either of these plans can be carried as a school project or as a standard 4-H club program.

The county home demonstration agent will give assistance to any teacher desiring additional information or specific help in planning for the work.

MALADY STRIKES HORSES HEAVILY IN THIS COUNTY

Several Hundred Been Treated Due Sleeping ing Sickness

A mysterious disease which creeps into the brain of a horse and gradually weakens and stupefies him is reaching a peak in virulence in Pettis county according to report of veterinarians who have already treated over 350 cases.

The malady, sleeping sickness, has affected an estimated 600 animals in the county since August 1. When it first appeared in July it affected primarily work horses on farms throughout the middle west but now even finely bred stock is falling to its sudden attack.

Veterinarians who have been almost continuously at work combatting the menace to the county's work animals say the disease often strikes in full force within 24 hours after the first symptoms appear.

The disease is caused by a specific filter-passing virum which affects the brain tissue of horses causing marked disturbances of the central nervous system. The number of horses affected on any one particular farm varies from one to two animals to as high as 50 per cent or more of the herd.

Caused by Insects

Observations in the field indicate that the disease is transmitted by blood-sucking insects. The disease is seasonal, usually appearing in July and disappearing in the fall soon after the first killing frost. The occurence of the disease is less where the horses have been protected from being bitten by blood-sucking insects.

The first symptom that is noticed may be depression or lagging at work. The animal usually runs a high temperature, 104° to 106° F., in the early stages of the disease. This may be followed by incoordination, prostration and motor and sensory paralysis appearing rapidly in the order given. When the disease is first noticed, a veterinarian should be called to administer treatment. Quiet and rest are essential for the stricken horses.

A good investment would be a thermometer and take the temperature of the horses twice a day, since a rise in temperature is the first symptom of the disease. If the temperature exceeds 101° F., the horse should not be worked and carefully watched and kept in a darkened stall, that is far removed from the sun's rays as possible.

Give Plenty of Water

Affected horses should have water as often as they will drink. They should be fed sufficient feeds such as bran, threshed oats, and some green corn with the ears removed.

Horses that get down, do not have as good a chance for recovery as those that can be kept on their feet. Weakened horses should be placed in a supporting frame to keep them on their feet. Purgatives are not recommended as they weaken the animal.

Since it is believed that blood-sucking insects are responsible for the transmission of the disease, every effort should be directed toward preventing animals from being bitten by insects. This may be done by the use of fly sprays and keeping the horses quartered in darkened stalls.

Horses should be watched for symptoms. Local veterinarian should be called to administer treatment. Protective measures promptly adopted and good care of affected animals will do a lot to alleviate a bad situation.

The use of the Chick Embryo Vaccine, which is available through the veterinarian has been reported to be a quick and effective method of immunizing of animals.

JURISDICTION IN SUPREME COURT IN OUSTER SUIT

Attorney General Seeks Ouster of Cole County Prosecutor

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 28—(AP)—Attorney General Roy McKittrick won a round today in his year-old fight to oust Carl Wymore, chunky young Cole county prosecutor, as an aftermath of a state-wide gambling drive.

The state supreme court accepted jurisdiction of the ouster suit and gave Wymore ten days to answer McKittrick's charge that the prosecutor had been "a member of a conspiracy to permit the unmolested operation of gambling devices" in Cole county —seat of the state capitol.

Wymore, now a democratic candidate for re-election, argued the supreme court was without power to consider the ouster. Today's conclusion, reached in two separate opinions, held, however, "This court has jurisdiction to determine the title of respondent (Wymore) to the office of prosecuting attorney" and ordered him to "show by what authority he claims title to his office."

The fight against the prosecutor which attracted state-wide attention grew out of last year's swift drive by state officials to rid Missouri of slot machines.

McKittrick filed the ouster proceedings against Wymore 24 hours after he and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark had declared war on gambling and ordered prosecutors of 36 counties to "strike at once at the slot machine racket."

Charge of Collusion

The peppery attorney general claimed Wymore refused to file criminal action against Cole county gamblers, even though "witnesses have been ready and willing to testify to the commission of . . . felonies and misdemeanors." He charged the young prosecutor was in "collusion" with persons "whose names are unknown" and claimed Cole county crime had become "open and notorious."

Wymore said then he stood ready to prosecute "to the fullest extent" slot mcahine operators "if any complaint is made and testimony given."

A few days later he went into the supreme court and attacked the attempt to remove him solely on grounds of jurisdiction. He claimed an act of the legislature had made it necessary to institute the suit against him in the Cole county circuit court.

Today's decision killed that plea, however, when the supreme court held it had authority and "it is beyond the power of the legislature to interfere with this jurisdiction."

REPEAL FOR THE NEUTRALITY ACT LOGAN SUGGESTS

Would Sell Commodities But Withhold Man Power

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—(AP)—Senator Logan (D-Ky) advocated outright repeal of the neutrality act today and a policy of making available to England and France "all the materials they need, except manpower" if they become involved in war.

The Kentuckian has been a consistent supporter of the administration in the senate. He is a member of the military affairs committee.

He said he favored repeal of the neutrality statute because "there can be no neutrality in a war." The law, when evoked, bans shipment of munitions to belligerents and limits the scope of trading in other commodities.

Some other senators said the neutrality act undoubtedly would be the subject of controversy in the next congress.

Senator Borah of Idaho, ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee, said he felt certain sentiment in congress would prevent repeal of the law, but some changes in it might be approved.

Both Borah and Logan expressed the opinion that the outbreak of war in Europe might make a special session of congress necessary.

Logan said that in the event of repeal of the neutrality act, congress should delegate authority to the president to deal with neutrality questions.

Agreeing with Senator Logan that the neutrality act had proved ineffective in some instances (it has not been invoked in the current Sino-Japanese struggle), Senator Holt (D-WVa) said he believed the law should be strengthened, not repealed.

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) said he thought there should be no restraining influence on American trade, so long as it was maintained on a "cash and carry" basis.

"If they must fight in Europe," Bilbo declared, "I'm in favor of selling them all the commodities we have."

DISTRICT P. T. A. PARLEY AT BOONVLLE

Conference Was Held In Baptist Church Tuesday

The annual Sedalia District Conference of the Missouri Congress of Parent-Teachers Association was held Tuesday, Sept. 27th, at the First Baptist church in Boonville. Mrs. P. R. Burford, district president, presided.

The state president, Mrs. Frank Dorsey, of Kansas City, gave an interesting and informative message on the 'Significance of the Parent-Teacher Movement." Mrs. Dorsey gave figures showing the progress of the movement through the years. She stated that the 2,222,218 members of the National Congress, 68,116 are in Missouri as members of the 939 local units.

She gave interesting reports on projects that have been successfuly adopted and carried on in late years. Mrs. Dorsey stated: "A benevolent type of work that is always advocated and which is carried out in many communities of the state is the promotion and support of scholarship funds of both the loan and gift type. Thousands of dollars go into these projects every year and expenditures vary from car fare and school book allowances to $200 per year tuition fees. There are now many young men and women teaching in the schools of Missouri who owe the financing of their education to Parent-Teacher school funds. We regard them as one of the most valuable contributions that we make to the schools of Missouri."

Another report was from a special committee on "Men's Activities," adopted by the state board of managers in August, 1938. This propect was recommended after leaders realized the fact that there are certain activities within Parent-Teacher Associations that are of special interest to men and demand a man's viewpoint, influence and leadership.

Mr. L. E. Zeigler, superintendent of Boonville schools, gave an interesting talk on "How the P. T. A. Can Help Our Schools." Mr. Ziegler stressed his views from a parents and teachers standpoint. He emphasized the importance of each parent studying each club as a different problem and the importance of keeping a close touch with the school and teacher in order to guide our children and be prepared to help them select the proper vocation for life and be able to coup with the problems that come to them along life's highway.

County Superintendent Gordon Renfrow discussed "The P. T. A. at Work in the County." He explained how much the cooperation of the P. T. A. units in the different counties had meant to children and community. He gave illustrations from various schools where the landscaping, county libraries, health projects and the clothing and feeding of underprivileged children had been a part of the P. T. A. program.

Mrs. W. L. Feed, president of Sedalia Council gave a very informative talk on publicity, outlining the duties of the publicity committee and the various channels through which this work can be carried on.

Historian's records were ably discussed by Miss Mamie McCormick, publicity chairman, Pettis County Council of P. T. Associations.

Mrs. C. E. Van Horn, vice-president of Sedalia Council, gave an informative talk on "Study Classes," stressing the importance of these groups as an informative plan to promote parent education.

Mrs. M. E. Green, president of Pettis County Council, explained "What Do The Dues Do?" Mrs. Green stated the annual membership dues are kept as low as feasible in order that every interested adult may have the privilege of active membership. These dues include three portions, National portion, as provided in the national by laws which is five cents; the state portion is ten cents and a local portion is ten cents, as provided in the local by-laws and kept in the unit treasury.

A large attendance was estimated as over 80 from the five counties this district is comprised of. The Sedalia and Pettis County units had 42 representing this county.

COMPROMISE BE ATTEMPTED TO PREVENT STRIKE

Board To Study Railway Wage Dispute To Get Active

MOVES TO MEDIATE PROVED FAILURE

Delay Is Forced On Imposing Wage Cut Also On Strike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(AP)—A three-man board selected by President Roosevelt will begin an effort Friday, to avert the threatened nation-wide railroad strike.

The three commissioners and representatives of both the employes and the carriers have agreed, it was announced today, to begin presentation of testimony at 10 a. m. (EST) Friday.

Officials said the hearings should last about three weeks, leaving ten days thereafter to prepare recommendations for settling the controversy, for submission to President Roosevelt.

Negotiation and mediation having failed, the board will attempt to formulate a compromise which President Roosevelt can ask both sides to accept.

Railroads announced several weeks ago they would cut wages 15 per cent next Saturday. The employes then voted to strike.

So, just four days before the walkout was scheduled, President Roosevelt appointed an emergency fact-finding board.

Under the railway labor act, this forces a 60-day delay in both the imposition of the wage reductions and the calling of a strike. The emergency board has 30 days to make a report on the controversy. The law also calls for a second thirty-day period of maintenance of the status quo during which labor and management can study the board's findings.

Charge Propaganda At University

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—John C. Metcalfe of Chicago told the house committee on un-American activities yesterday the University of Missouri was among American colleges at which exchange students were the medium of "one of the most alarming ways of Nazi propaganda."

Metcalfe, a young man with a Hitler-like mustache, who became a member of the German-American bund to study its operations, described two German exchange students sent to the University of Missouri as active in Nazi propaganda work.

"On arriving at Columbia, Mo." he said, "they took up residence in the finest houses on the campus. The girl was taken into Kappa Kappa Gamma house and the young man was accepted by the Beta Theta Pi.

"During the fall season a course of lectures were given on Nazi Germany. These lectures were conducted by Professor John B. Wolf and others. It was reported at this time the two students composed a mailing list for Nazi propaganda.

"The girl, in addition, wrote articles which appeared in the Columbia 'Missourian.' The tenor of her articles was to the effect that foreign newspapers give a distorted picture of conditions in Germany. The articles were definitely pro-Nazi. This girl is an active member of the German club."

Nearly 300,000 persons watched the giant vessel, companion ship of the Queen Mary, glide down the shipways into the Clyde.

"I have a message from the king," Queen Elizabeth told the huge crowd. "He bids the people of this country to be of good cheer in spite of the dark clouds hanging over them and indeed the whole world.

"He knows well that, as ever before in critical times, they will keep cool heads and brave hearts."

KATY PASSENGER COACHES IN FIRE

Three Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad passenger cars in the shop yards near Twentieth street and Carr avenue, were damaged to the extent of between $10,000 and $15,000 about 3:07 o'clock Thursday morning by fire.

It was believed that some transients had sought shelter in the coaches, and probably decided to build a fire to keep warm and this became uncontrollable, starting the cars to burning.

The blaze caused heavy damage to a baggage car; a combination baggage, mail and passenger coach, and a passenger coach, before the alarm had been sent to the fire department. Both companies answered the call and within a short time after their arrival had subdued the flames.

The loss is based upon the cost of the cars which had been "spotted" in the shop yards preparatory to being run into the shops for repairs. Officials at the M-K-T shops announced the damage after an investigation and inspection had been conducted early today.

KINDNESSES REAP MILLION REWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—It's an O. Henry story with a typical surprise ending—this true-life tale of how a former assistant theater manager and a ballet dancer were kind to an eccentric old lady and reaped an estimated $1,000,000 reward.

The old lady was 70-year-old Mrs. Edna Morss Allin Elliott, a quaint haunter of film houses who became known as "New York's champion movie fan."

A feminine hermit, she died friendless and alone last Friday in her three-story brownstone house on West 88th street.

Her will disclosed she had left securities and $80,000 in jewels to Rosalie Spatcher, a ballet dancer, and the residue to William J. Reilly, former assistant manager of the Roxy theater. They had "helped to make the recent years of my life more pleasant," Mrs. Elliott wrote in her will.

Reilly, whose sudden wealth lifted him from a $52-a-month hospital attendant's post, said attorneys told him the estate was valued at $1,000,000.

He said when he first met Mrs. Elliott in 1927 he thought she was poor—she wore old-fashioned dresses with leg o' mutton sleeves—and arranged for her to have a front row seat every Thursday when the theater changed its program. Afterward he would discuss the show with her briefly.

The theater closed temporarily in 1932 and Reilly lost his job. He never saw Mrs. Elliott again.

She then began attending Radio City music hall and during rehearsals Miss Spatcher often walked over to chat with the lonely old womah in the front row seat. She never knew Mrs. Elliott's identity or saw her outside the theater.

It wasn't until yesterday that Reilly learned of his fortune. He said he had dodged Mrs. Eliott's lawyers for several days—thinking they were trying to serve him with a summons.

DOUBTS HITLER WANTS TO FIGHT

LITTLE FALLS, MINN., Sept. 29—(AP)—Today, as Adolf Hitler plays a game of life and death in Europe, his old wartime sergeant is at work gathering in the harvest from his Morrison county farm.

He is Albert Patrich. For two years, from 1916 to 1918, Hitler was one of the five corporals under his command.

Patrich, a native Austrian, has been following closely the crisis dispatches. He doesn't think Hitler wants to fight—he simply couldn't after going through the carnage of the World war.

"Hitler has helped the German people get on their feet," the former sergeant observed. "I am sure he will ask nothing more than he now is demanding of Czechoslovakia."

To the question, "What kind of a personage was Hitler in the war?" Patrich shrugged his shoulders.

"He was just a corporal, what could he say or do? Eight men were under him, that's all. I was a little higher than he, I had 40 men under me. I had to give orders to him but he never talked much aside from that."

TO ENLARGE DEMOCRAT AND CAPITAL BUILDING

Contract for a second-story addition to the building occupied by the Sedalia Democrat Co., publishers of the Sedalia Democrat and Capital, 108-110 South Fourth street, has been let to the Dean Construction Company. Work will be started immediately. The improvement will extend the second story 38 feet to the north alley.

The additional room will relieve crowded conditions in the composing room and allow ample space for new equipment to be used in the printing and publishing business.

In an effort to improve the newspapers, thus providing a better product for the thousands of readers in the trade territory, the extension program was deemed necessary. Outmoded equipment will be replaced with new machinery from time to time as conditions warrant. After the new addition is completed the machinery now in use in the composing room will be rearranged to permit more systematic handling of news and advertising copy in its production into type.

TRANSIENT STRUCK BY CAR, SLIGHTLY INJURED

Martin Nevins, aged about 55 years, a transient, was injured but not seriously late Monday afternoon, when he was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Everett C. Berry, of Warrensburg. The accident occurred near "The Tops" west of Sedalia on highway 50.

The man was walking west on the left side of the highway and Mrs. Berry was driving west. She said she slowed down a little as she approached the man, and he suddenly ran across the highway in front of her.

He was taken to the Bothwell hospital where it was said he has only minor bruises.

OVER THE TOP IN THE ARGONNE 20 YEARS AGO

U. S. Division With Sedalians In Ranks Recaptured Hill

Twenty (short) years ago Monday morning many young Sedalia boys went into one of the worst batles of the World War, the battle of the Argonne Forest. The 140th Infantry of the 35th Division which moved into the sector went over the top at dawn and many of those Sedalia boys never returned.

The height of the world conditions today bring back closer memories and vivid memories, and many of those boys were in groups today recalling just what happened those short twenty years ago.

It was recalled that Vaquois Hill in the Argonne sector, held for four years by the German Army, was recaptured by the United States forces and from then on the Allies continued their march driving the Germans back.

The 140th, as it has been said, moved into the sector during the night of September 25th and morning of the 26th of 1918, they laid in waiting until dawn, and at the signal of the whistles of the commanding officers began their advancement, following behind the rolling bombardment of the French 75's. This barrage was started at midnight and continued on through the early morning and until the battle had subsided.

But 55 Survived

Out of 250 men of the 140th only 55 of the men survived, and many of those were wounded.

Today a partial list of the local members which was hurriedly gotten up is as follows: Ora A. Martin, Lee N. Dowd, Finis E. Rayhill, Robin Adair, Arthur E. Lipscomb, Brent Speer, Seth W. Washburn, William S. Triplett, Joe Salisbury, Gordon Rissler, Lawrence N. Englund, Troy Hotsenpiller, Dick Woods, John Rector, Harry Lambirth, Chester Long, Gordon Lamm, and there are still others who names were not obtained late this afternoon.

William S Triplett, whose name appears in the list is now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, in the School of Instruction, a captain in the regular army, and who has just returned from duty in China.

Otis Howe, not a member of the 140th, but who was in the 125th Infantry of the 32nd Division, recalled memories of the World War back twenty years ago last July when his outfit of 250 men went into the battle of Shateau Thierry, the turning point of the war, and when they emerged from battle only two surviving members remained, himself and Luther Reedy of Grand Island, Neb., who has since passed away, Howe said he understood.

Howe said at the time of the Argonne he was in a hospital in France, himself wounded in the left leg, and was unable to take part in the battle. He recalled the battle of the Argonne however as a topic of conversation in the hospital, the same as the great conflict in which he participated.

Several Sedalia boys were also in the battle of the Argonne with the 110th Engineers, among them were Don Mahoney, Ben Rose, Ed Lovins, Forrest Hamm and "Red" Maness. A number of Pettis County boys were also with the 110th but their names could not be obtained this afternoon.

RELEASE NINE OF BUILDING GROUP

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—Nine employes of the state building commission—among them several top salaried executives—were released today as part of a general cost reduction program.

The $17,000,000 state building program upon which all were employed, is nearly completed except for finishing a few buildings, chief of which are at the state prison here.

All of the dismissals except that of L. R. Bowen, supervising architect of eleemosynary institutions, will be effective Oct. 1. Bowen, whose salary is $7,000 a year, will serve through October. His home is in St. Louis.

In addition to Bowen those dismissed include A. H. Kendrick, general superintendent of construction, whose salary was $4,-00 a year; George E. McIntyre, Kansas City, assistant consulting engineer, $4,000 a year, B. Cook, Kansas City, mechanical engineer, $300 a month; and these lesser employes:

Charles Nutter, $75 a month prison mail clerk; Mamie Holterman, $112.50 a month stenographer; Hildreth Robberson, $125 a month stenographer; and Ray Sullivan, $100 a month mail clerk.

In addition the commission cut the salary of Edgar Eagan, executive secretary of the bi-partisan advisory board, from $350 to $300 a month and deprived him of the state-owned car he has been using.

Two state cars used by employes of the commission were ordered turned back to the state purchasing department and all employes were instructed to use the state-owned car of Charles Haskin, Kansas City, chief engineer, for all official business

Reductions were also ordered in the long distance telephone costs of the department.

GERMAN THREAT ON THE MONROE DOCTRINE GROWS

Nazi and Italian Challenge To U. S. Interests In South America

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Some students of international affairs here say a German and Italian challenge to the United States' interests in South America steadily is drawing closer.

This theme is discussed at length in an editorial survey of the international situation in the current issue of the Army and Navy Journal which, though not an official publication, often reflects the views of service circles.

"Within the scope of German and Italian ambitions is Pan-America," the Journal said.

"The propaganda of the dictators has been loosed upon it, fascist coups have been attempted in Brazil and Chile, and there is intense cultivation of Mexico, aided by the irritation against the United States and Great Britain resulting from their protests at the expropriation of the land and oil properties of their nationals.

"Even though we are successful in avoiding embroilment in Europe, or Asia, we will face in our hemisphere determined drives to foist dictatorial idealogy upon the countries below the Rio Grande, and to encourage their hostility against us.

The Journal further urged President Roosevelt and congress to take immediate steps to carry out the post-war recommendations of General John J. Pershing for an army of between 275,000 and 300,-000 men, and recent suggestions of Senator Walsh (D-Mass) for building a navy so powerful that it could resist any combination of nations attacking American interests.

Germany already has made economic and cultural inroads in several South American countries. Trade experts estimate that this year Germany will supply about 14 per cent of South America's imports, compared with about 35 per cent for the United States.

These experts say, too, that annexation of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia would give Germany now ammunition to use in an economic war with the United States for dominance in South America.

ASSERTS STATES KNOW NEEDS BEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri urged the national governors' conference today to guard against letting the state "become dependent in any sense" upon the federal government.

"Granted that it is frequently difficult to find the line of demarcation between federal and state relationships for services to the people," he said in a prepared address, "I think it is imperative that we keep before us at all times the fact that the states best know the needs and problems of their own citizens.

"Because of this, state government must be progressive. By all means the states must never be content to merely follow, nor to become dependent in any sense. Need for leadership and constructive effort is daily apparent in state government."

The Missouri executive said the "close relationships which have existed between federal and state governments since the inception of the union have become intensified with the rapid expansion of governmental services practically all of which have come into being upon the demand of the people."

RISK COMPANIES ATTACK BAR ASSOCIATION

Supreme Court Hears Arguments at State Capital

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 27—Insurance company lawyers attacked the state bar association in the supreme court today for "a pioneer crusade against business"—in a dispute over the rights of insurance adjusters to settle policy claims.

The high court heard arguments today in a case that attracted nation-wide attention when the Boone county circuit court held adjusters were encroaching on the "practice of law" by their actions in mutual casualty insurance settlements.

"The suppression of the practice of law by lay adjusters is undoubtedly in the public interest," the bar association argued in its brief.

"The advisory committee (of the bar association) are firmly convinced that there is inherent in this case the conflict between those who would commercialize the practice of law and those who would maintain an independent legal profession with public responsibilities and duties greater than those of the commercial world. . . .

"It would be unjust to the lawyer to permit the unlicensed to compete with him in the field of his profession and at the same time impose upon the lawyers rules of professional conduct which the unlicensed cannot be compelled to observe."

Attorneys for the insurance companies argued in their briefs that "if millions of laymen now performing these tasks for their employers are to be replaced by lawyers, the only answer is to produce lawyers in quantity—millions of them—to fill these clerical positions. . . .

"If the principle underlying the lower court's judgment is to be upheld then business as conducted in this country will have to stop and remain suspended until enough lawyers can be educated and prepared to take over the activities foreclosed to laymen by this novel rule of law."

The Boone county decision held insurance adjusters were engaging in the "unlawful practice of law" by the following actions:

Adjustment and settlement of claims; preparation of releases or compromise agreements between the company and claimants; advising companies of their legal rights, appearing before the workmens' compensation commission for the hearing of claims; determining whether insurance policies cover a specific casualty and determining the legal liability of companies.

PLAN ENLARGING AND IMPROVING FAIR COLISEUM

Grant of $209,466 Is Asked of P.W.A. Project Cost $465,480

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 24.—The Public Works Administration Regional office at Omaha, Nebraska, announces receipt of an application of the State of Missouri for Federal assistance under the 1938 PWA program in constructing an addition and repairing the Exhibition Building at the State Fair Grounds at Sedalia, Missouri.

The State of Missouri asked that PWA provide a grant of $209,466 for the project, which it was estimated would cost $465,480. The applicant would provide the difference between the amount of the grant and the total construction cost.

Under the expedited procedure which PWA is following to push the new program the application will receive prompt examination in the Regional office preparatory to being forwarded to Washington.

PWA had the assurance of local officials that work could be started promptly on the proposed project, assuring employment and economic stimulation for industry.

The reference to the "Exhibition Building" it was said, refers to the large coliseum where plans have been drawn to make some needed improvements in enlarging the building remodeling the interior and doing necessary work of improvements on the exterior.

It was said the improvements include the building of an addition on the north end of the structure enlarging it by between eighty and one hundred feet. The building according to plans will give more room in which horse shows, live stock shows can be displayed without being over crowded.

These improvements would give to Missouri one of the finest coliseums in the United States, if not the largest.

Plans are being discussed to also finish the work on the large swine building located in the west section of the fair grounds. This building it was said has not been fully completed but was so constructed that an addition can be constructed there to complete the original plans.

It will, after being completed, be used to house the hogs and sheep. The large sheep barn which was located just west of the administration building has been razed and the ground graded to be used for exhibitors and concessions.

When the work is started it will mean a large amount of employment for Sedalians and Pettis Countians.
